Greece Nears Mobilization Of All Forces

Sailors on Leave Recalled to Ships Immediately; Vessel Attacked By Planes Identified as Italian; Fascist Demands Reported.

(By United Press)
ATHENS—Greece was ready to order general mobilization today as a result of the torpedoing and sinking of the mine layer Helle by an unidentified submarine at the Greek island of Tinos.

Some hint as to the nationality of the attacker was conveyed in reports of a simultaneous attack against the Greek ship Frinton off the north coast of Crete by airplanes said to have been definitely identified as Italian.

As reports spread that general mobilization was near, motorcycle couriers sped about the country ordering sailors on leave to return to their ships immediately. Some of the ships were ordered to Tinos to bring back to the mainland 10,000 pilgrims who had gone there to observe a national religious festival, the Feast of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin.

The submarine appeared without warning and fired torpedoes at the Helle, which carried a crew of 100 men. One torpedo struck the engine room, killing one man and seriously injuring two others. Other torpedoes sped past the vessel and struck the dock where the pilgrims were parading. Several pilgrims, including children, were injured. The submarine was not identified since it was barely visible.

Shortly after the attack Rafaele Boscarelli, the Italian minister here, held a long conversation with Premier John Metaxas. The subject was not disclosed, but it was reported that Boscarelli had talked of certain Italian demands on Greece.

(London had reported yesterday, quoting a highly placed Balkan diplomat, that Italy planned to invade Greece through Albania and take over the great naval base at Salonika, in the Aegean sea.)
After the conference Metaxas conferred with his ministers of (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Five or Six Men Reported Killed at Joplin, Mo.

JOPLIN, Mo.—(AP)—Five or six men were reported killed this morning in an explosion at the Atlas powder plant six miles east of Joplin.

The blast occurred in the which has been working near capacity because of war orders.

First reports indicated the explosion did not strike the new TNT plant, built on the same reservation since the outbreak of the European war.

The peaceful greensward I left has been changed into an island fortress.

Gone is the blind reliance on the "channel barrier" the reasoning that "no haven been invaded for a thousand years therefore we never shall be."

HOUSE PASSES GUARD MEASURE

Senate Approval of Minor Changes Needed For Final Adoption.

(By Associated Press).
WASHINGTON — Overwhelming house approval of the national guard mobilization bill all but cleared the way today for the calling of an estimated 386,000 men to the colors for a year's active service.

The passage of the measure by a 342 to 33 vote late yesterday left progressive mobilization of the guard and reservists only two steps short of actuality—the senate must first concur in some minor changes in the legislation previously approved, and then President Roosevelt must sign it into law.

The army meanwhile marked time, with plans ready to call up the first contingent of 53,000 guardsmen Sept. 15, and reports from war game areas where the militia is now training said the weeding out of physically unfit already was under way in the units to be summoned first.

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt revealed today that the United States is negotiating with the British empire for acquisition of naval and air bases to bolster western hemisphere defenses.

"The United States government is holding conversations with the government of the British empire with regard to acquisition of naval and air bases for the defense of the western hemisphere and especially the Panama canal," Mr. Roosevelt said.

"The United States government is carrying on conversations with the Canadian government on the defense of the western hemisphere."

The negotiations with Canada are separate from those being conducted with London, the president explained.

He also disclosed that the U. S. army and navy have high officers in Great Britain at the invitation of the British government to act (Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

SET TO LEAVE

Mansfielders Fill Coach on Elwood Special Train.

A "full house" is assured for a special coach which will carry Mansfielders to the Elwood, Ind., celebration tomorrow at which Wendell L. Willkie will officially accept the Republican nomination for president.

The coach, which will be a part of a special Erie train going to Elwood, has accommodations for only 70 and all seats had been reserved this noon.

Beside the Mansfielders who go by way of train there are a number going by motor. The oldest Republican in the Mansfield delegation will be A. B. Endly, former councilman and precinct committeeman, who left this noon by motor.

The special train, which picks up coaches in Akron, Ashland, Mansfield and Marion, leaves here at 8:55 a. m. tomorrow, arrives at Elwood at noon, leaves there at 5 p. m. and arrives home about 9 p. m. It will carry a dining car and refreshments car.

Only a year ago the man in the pub still was likely to associate the word "crisis" with the progress of his favorite cricket team. The rare bloke who had an air raid shelter in his garden apologized laughingly for it.

Today red and white striped poles topped with arrows point the way "To The Trenches" and to deeper-type shelters. Even a part of Trafalgar Square has been given over to them.

The last sight I recall as the train carried me to Dover that summer day a year ago was of sheep grazing in green fields. The first sight I met after stepping out of a seaplane on my return was of sandbags and barbed wire and of soldiers in khaki patrolling with modern rifles. The soldiers even carry their rifles on dates.

English Laugh at Leaflets

FINALLY GETS HOSPITAL AID

Mother, Refused Because Mate Owed Bill, Admitted For Needed Treatment.

A woman whose husband claimed General hospital would not give his wife treatment because of a balance he owed them for previous services, was admitted to the institution yesterday.

This was disclosed this morning by Supt. A. O. Fonkalsrud after an office clerk, Mrs. Anna R. Miller, refused to divulge any information concerning the woman.

It was not immediately learned if X-rays had been taken, although a director of the hospital board said yesterday that the mother of two small children would be admitted for observation.

The foundry worker husband, who said he earned about $20 a week complained two days ago that he was told needed X-rays could not be taken until he paid an $80 balance owed the hospital.

Municipal court records show that the family is making regular payments on the hospital bill through a trusteeship.

Mrs. Miller asked if the woman had been admitted said: "I don't know anything about it." (Continued on Page 3, Col. 4)

Two Mansfielders Among Rescued In Lake Erie

Two Mansfield youths probably owed their lives today to a third Mansfielder, Roy Fidler, 96 Woodland avenue, who summoned help and went to their rescue last night when they were pulled beyond their depth in Lake Erie by a powerful undertow.

Rescued from the rough waters at Otto's camp near Huron, Frank Novak, 23, of 115 East Dickson avenue, and his companion, Robert Miller, 22, near Mansfield, were none the worse today for their experience, but Novak said "we don't want to go through it again."

Novak and Miller were swimming alone in the lake about 6 p. m., when Miller, who had gone out beyond Novak, suddenly called for help, yelling to Novak that he couldn't swim back.

Novak, considered a good swimmer, went to his rescue, but when he got out to Miller neither of (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

SPARE ISLAND

Storm Moves Large Chunk of Terra (Not So) Firma.

MANITOWISH, Wis. — (AP)—Henry Kuhnert, lake resort proprietor, wants to get rid of a large island that a storm left on his doorstep.

Set adrift by the storm, the island—a tree covered mass 600 feet long and 50 feet wide—moved more than a quarter of a mile across the lake to come to rest on the Kuhnert beach.

People were carrying gas masks. And the skies above were dotted by cable-trailing balloons. Like giant spiders ready to trap marauding enemy aircraft.

The same red double-decker buses were swinging perilously through narrow, winding streets. But there also were snub-nosed auxiliary fire engines. To serve these engines in case mains break in a raid, are large oblong tanks of water installed like old-fashioned horse troughs at strategic Fate played a hand in saving the lives of Irvin Elsas, 8, and Willis Sommer, 10, a few seconds before an automobile, being towed by another car, came hurtling through the air and crashed on the very spot where the two boys had been playing in the wagon only a moment before.

The meters were samples sent here by the Karpark corporation of New York City.

City council at its Aug. 6 meeting authorized installation of the meters for a nine-month trial period and authorized the city board of control to set up meter zones and enter into a contract for leasing the machines for the trial period.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton immediately called for bids and requested samples of the machines to be submitted by the bidders. The proposals are to be opened Monday, Aug. 26 at the City Hall.

The meters submitted by the Karpark company include a penny machine, on which from one to five cents worth of parking time can be purchased; a nickel machine for one of two-hour parking, and a combination penny and nickel meter.

Wave After Wave of Bombers, Protected By Clouds of Fighters, Darken Sky Over British Coast; 20 Shot Down In First Hour.

BULLETIN
BERLIN — (AP) — DNB, official German news agency, said today German military planes over London's environs had started big fires on either side of the Thames and that "everywhere smoke was rising, everywhere hits and bomb craters were visible."

(By United Press)
BERLIN—Adolf Hitler sent a picked air armada over London early tonight and a great battle is now being fought over the British capital, German sources reported.

The battle is one of the greatest of the war, it was said, but there was no immediate estimate of the number of planes involved on each side.

The German airmen, described as an especially selected force, had orders to attack every military objective in the London region and prove that "no power on earth" could prevent an attack on the British capital.

A play-by-play report of the sensational attack was given by German sources here. The first report came even before the German armada reached its goal and started to rain bombs upon London objectives.

First word was given out as the picked force crossed over the English channel and was met by the first relays of British fighter planes.

Next word was that they were over London and that a combat, possibly the fiercest of the war, had broken out over the great metropolitan area.

Then came word that the German bombers were attacking Barking and Purfleet on the Thames, well within metropolitan London, and that the dogfights were spreading out all over Middlesex county.

The attack was specifically directed at "all important military objectives in the vicinity" of London.

LONDON—(UP)—Germany sent wave after wave of bombers over Britain today in unprecedented numbers and by mid-afternoon it was estimated about 2,000 Nazi fighters and bombers had crossed over the English channel to the British coast.

The German planes were coming over almost continuously in huge squadrons of more than 50 and 100 bombers, protected by clouds of fighters.

It appeared that if the attack continued on the same scale Germany would have air blitzkrieg going full blast before the day was over.

The attack was being directed across the English channel against the southeast and south coast of Britain and against points inland from the sea in that area.

British fighter patrols were engaged in continuous dogfights over a scattered area of hundreds of square miles along the coast.

Before they could finish tackling one flight of bombers, another would come roaring across.

Reports of the fights and of the downing of German planes flashed in so rapidly that it was difficult to tabulate them. Minimum estimates were that at least 20 German (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

DOG-FIGHTS: British Catch German Raiders on Way Home

(By International News Service)
AT A SOUTHEAST COAST PORT, England—At least seven Junkers dive-bombers were brought down off the English coast today when British Hurricanes and Spitfires intercepted a large enemy formation returning from an inland raid. A series of bitter dog-fights raged over the coastline and the English channel.

As the Germans recrossed the coast, half a dozen of the Messerschmitts detached themselves from the bulk of the raiders and staged an attack on the barrage balloons, hoping to divert attention of the British fighters from the Nazi bombers in the group.

The ruse failed, however. A series of bitter dog-fights raged over the coastline and the English channel.

Indiana Crowds Welcome Wendell Willkie Back Home

NOMINEE GOES IN SECLUSION BEFORE SPEECH

Expected to State Attitude on Political Issues in Tomorrow's Address.

(By Associated Press) RUSHVILLE, Ind.—Wendell L. Willkie, back home in Indiana, went into seclusion today to rest before accepting the Republican presidential nomination at Elwood, Ind., in a speech expected to clarify his attitude on the major issues including conscription.

He was welcomed home last night by a tumultuous crowd that lined the streets and country cross-roads from Indianapolis to this, the home town of his wife, Edith Willkie.

He spent the night at the home of the manager of his five Rush county farms, Miss Mary Sleeth, after visiting at the home of his wife's parents.

Tomorrow he will travel to Elwood where 300,000 Republicans were expected to hear his acceptance speech. The speech was expected to contain declarations on foreign policy, agriculture and political machines as well as on conscription. Among his audience will be many congressmen who came from Washington for the notification and acceptance ceremony. Congress had recessed for the week-end to permit their attendance.

Willkie arrived at Indianapolis last night from Colorado Springs, Colo., where he had spent five weeks vacationing and campaigning. He had stopped en route at Kansas City, Mo., home of the once-powerful Thomas J. Pendergast Democratic machine, to declare that Democracy is undergoing a test with the totalitarian form of government and to describe political machines as "cancers on the Democracy."

"With the help of the national administration, the machine gained a new foothold in the recent Missouri primary and I call upon you to smother it in the November election and keep it from raising its slimy head again in this section," he said.

From Indianapolis the caravan drove toward Rushville, stopping at each small town to let Willkie wave at the crowds which lined the streets.

Almost all of Rushville's 6,000 citizens turned out to greet him at midnight.

Willkie was expected to favor compulsory military training as a defense and preparedness measure. He refused to comment on appeals by Sens Robert A. Taft, R., O., and Arthur H. Vandenberg, R., Mich., that he oppose conscription in peace-time.

Quick-Thinking Mechanic Stops Fire on Clipper

NEW YORK.—Using only his bare hands, a fast-thinking mechanic at LaGuardia field today smothered a fire on the huge Yankee Clipper a few moments after it had started.

The mechanic, Richard E. Ditty, was treated for burns of the hands. A fellow mechanic, Fred Massie, was slightly burned while helping Ditty.

The Yankee Clipper was not even singed and likewise the Atlantic Clipper and Britain's flying boat, the Dacre, sheltered alongside in the Pan-American Airways hangar, escaped harm.

The Yankee Clipper, which arrived from Lisbon yesterday afternoon, will leave as usual tomorrow for Lisbon.

Apparatus from four fire stations and six radio cars and extra police sped to the hangar but before they had arrived Ditty had the fire out. The flame was caused by a spark which ignited gas fumes in the tank under the ship's sea wing, known as the hydro-stabilizer.

Hundreds Homeless After West Va., Floods

With the frequent help of the sprinkling hose, Central park is producing its third crop of flowers this season, and this crop looks better than the others. The park's flower beds are bright with pink blue, purple and white summer blossoms which make a pretty picture from offices in the Richland Trust building. To keep them looking right under the handicap of the late summer drought, park workers have to sprinkle the flowers and lawn almost daily.

Two around-towners, strolling along Park avenue west, were stopped yesterday by a panhandler with a pretty good line. The chaps listened in mounting amusement as he explained that he was broke and plenty hungry. He even revealed his recipe for "mulligan stew." So the around-towners chipped together and gave him some money for vegetables. Coming back along the street some time later they saw the panhandler and their contribution being loaded into a police cruiser.

He is Nick Linster and unless he plays sub-par golf all the way it looks like a married man will win the crown. Ward's stalk is still only 8 and a half feet high, but it is as big around as a man's arm, and is still growing. It hasn't a sign of tassel or ears, however.

Manfield Youth Unconscious After Fall From Bike.

Robert Wyllie, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wyllie, 172 Johns avenue, was in General hospital today with a possible skull fracture received when he fell from his bicycle.

The accident happened at a boys' camp along Brubaker creek, eight miles north of Manfield, where young Wyllie was camping with Troop 9 of the Boy Scouts.

He was thrown when his bicycle hit a stone and he lost control of it. It was believed he struck his left temple on a rock. He was still unconscious at noon today.

NASSAU PLANS ROYAL WELCOME

Secrecy of Windsor Arrival Rouses Excitement Among Bahamas Residents.

NASSAU, Bahama Islands.—(U.S.)—Loyal British residents of this new world British colony today awaited with increasing eagerness the arrival of their new governor, the Duke of Windsor, and his American-born wife, the duchess. Announcement that the former British monarch and the former Wallis Warfield of Baltimore are en route here from Bermuda under conditions of strict secrecy roused the tropical islands and their inhabitants to a high pitch of excitement.

If authorities approve a mass demonstration, a huge sign reading "Welcome," atop historic Spanish Fort Charlotte will greet the Duke and Duchess when they arrive.

Meanwhile advance distribution of copies of the address of welcome to be delivered by W. C. B. Johnson, speaker of the house of assembly, disclosed one significant point.

Keen-eyed observers noticed that portions of the address referring to the Duchess as "her Grace" have been changed to read "The Duchess."

BATTERY GETS TASTE OF REAL ARMY LIFE, GUARDSMEN WRITE

Members of Battery D, 134th F. A. attending annual army maneuvers at Sparta, Wis., are doing some actual "roughing it," according to information received today from Sgt. Dale Rowan and Cpl. Frank C. Schneider.

The guardsmen left here last Sunday at 5:30 a. m. and slept under pup tents during all night rain at Camp Grant, near Rockford, Ill., the second night. They got up at 2:30 a. m. to pack equipment, "grab some grub" and were on the road again at 3:50 a. m. They arrived at Camp Warrens at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday.

"Our regiment is a. S. S. 16 miles from the nearest town," the two non-coms wrote. "The area is a very sandy section of the state, along with wooded sections of oak. There are some very interesting formations of rock nearby, and also some Indian villages. We had a little rain here, too."

"The mosquitoes are a big nuisance and so we all have netting to sleep under at night. The Battery has been very busy this morning (Wednesday) trenching and re-staking our squad tents. Water facilities are not up to par yet, but provisions are in the making. The men will have water for showers—pumped directly from drilled wells. Lighting facilities consist of lanterns, with electric lights in the kitchen which are fed by one of our own motors."

Their drinking water, they said, is brought into camp three times a day.

"Nothing out of the ordinary has happened yet," they said, "but the men are really getting a taste of roughing it. Taking everything into consideration they are having some very good experiences and the morale is tops."

It takes morale to keep cheerful under the forces of nature which present a real adversary, according to Associate Press writers with the units. The sandy soil provides tough going for marching men and much worse for tanks, trucks and motorized equipment which bogs down hopelessly if drivers get off the roads. Then there are prickly burns that have a diabolical way of getting up inside pantlegs, into bedding and blankets. There are, they estimate, "billions of burrs."

Also in uncomfortable numbers are grasshoppers which "gang up" on occasions when the men are engaged in maneuvers. The mosquitoes are said to be non-malarial, but they are legion and they are victims. Then the occasional snakes from swamps and bogs give the boys something to worry about.

But worse than all of these for the ordinary guardsman who is used to riding in autos are the long distances between units and training areas.

For instance, almost a score of square miles are allotted to the infantry, artillery, cavalry and special troops of the 38th division. That means miles of hauling water for drinking, cooking and bathing; miles of marching for combined unit training and weary distances to the nearest settlement of Warren, Wis., and farther to Tomah or Sparta for off duty recreation.

Since the army is enforcing strictly the Wisconsin law against hitch hiking, it is shank's mare for any doughboy who wants to go to town, unless he is able to cadge a ride on an army truck, bound on an errand from his outfit and most of these are too heavily laden with supplies to take on passengers.

Mail sent to the Manfield boys should be addressed to Battery D, 134th F.A.O.N.G., Army Postoffice 37, Sparta, Wis.

100 MILES OF RIVER AREA IN STRICKEN ZONE

New River and Kanawha Spill Over Banks; Waters Flood Business Districts.

(By United Press) CHARLESTON, W. Va.—Several hundred thousand dollars damage was counted today along the New River and the Kanawha as the swollen streams seeped back into their banks. Relief agencies went to work at Hinton, Gauley Bridge and other communities to feed and care for the hundreds made homeless when the rivers flooded their dwellings.

The flood covered a 100-mile stretch along the two rivers from Hinto to Charleston. At Hinton, sections of the town were covered by water 10 feet deep. Further downstream, Gauley Bridge, where the New River meets the Kanawha, six feet of water flooded the business section.

From Gauley Bridge down as far as Charleston, more than 88 homes were either partly or wholly flooded, and the Red Cross station at Montgomery used the city armory to house those who had no place to spend the night.

The Electro-Metallurgical plant at Glen Ferris was forced to shut down for the first time in six years. A landslide above Gauley Bridge delayed trains of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad more than eight hours.

One of the largest towboats on the Kanawha, the "Henry C. Yeiser," broke loose from its mooring at Reed, with 15 fully-loaded barges and sank after ramming the C. & O. bridge in Charleston. Several barges were lost.

Communications lines of the Chesapeake and Potomac telephone company were disrupted for more than five hours. It was impossible to telephone east of Charleston without long delays because only a few circuits were open.

A submarine cable supplying telephone service to 150 homes in North Charleston was severed in the Kanawha, probably by a sunken barge.

A picnic lunch was served by mothers of the members. Handicraft, swimming, nature contests, archery, and other athletic events provided entertainment.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Stars and Sodas.

If there is any place in Manhattan that has the atmosphere of Hollywood's Brown Derby—the tense, super-charged quality of air in which money is minted, romances start, deals are set, stars are born, and options are dropped like griddle cakes—it is the beehive drug store in the RCA building on the 49th street side.

In this streamlined coke-and-sandwich palace, where even the walls imitate its cinema counterpart with pictures of celebrities, things happen. Here Fred Allen holds court over a chocolate sundae, Lawrence Tibbett drops in for a quick malted, Oscar Levant consumes six cups of coffee at one sitting, 25 cups of coffee in one day.

Here contracts are signed making actors rich, and options are dropped, making them poor. Here sit song-pluggers, movie stars, musicians, press agents, advertising executives, announcers, and characters transplanted from Lindy's. Here was born a prankster's inspiration to alarm the nation by kidnapping Charlie McCarthy.

The counter boys, Red and Shorty and the one who looks like a movie gangster, are perpetual audience to a sort of Broadway radio-Hollywood Grand Hotel. They know the "inside" on why this star was hired for a certain air show and they know when another one is to be fired.

Right now, for example, they could tell a certain big name band leader, who has been off the air for some time, that he's due for a coast-to-coast program at a tremendous salary—because it was in the drug store that the agency executive and the networks sales department agreed on the maestro. But the lads won't tell him, even if he walks in tomorrow looking blue.

These same boys were around when the merger of the two big booking offices, Rockefeller & Keefe and C. R. A. was discussed over coffee at the counter, and they were within earshot when the deal went through.

In summer, when Broadway moves to the air-conditioned studios the way it used to move only to the cow barns, the drug store becomes a sort of Sardi's. Sit around for a while with your cheese on rye toast and pretty soon Leif Erikson drifts in looking like a big handsome taxi driver in a sport shirt and corduroy slacks and a brown windbreaker.

Betty Fields whips in like a breeze. . . . Ella Stone's vocal squeals pierce the steady hum of the table talk. . . . Helen Clare orders a sandwich with only a trace of her "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" accent.

Johnny Green relaxes between rehearsals without his toupee.

Sit around and you hear funny tales about microphone land. Such as the one about Arlene Francis, the stage and air actress, who conducts a quiz program weekly. On the program she asks questions of the male contestants, and a male announcer quizzes the feminine guests.

Time after time, it was noted by observers in the studio that while the ladies on the program go through their answers quite smoothly, the men, as they came up before Miss Francis, stumble in their speech, grew flustered, blushed, became tongue-tied, stammered and got abnormally high percentage of wrong answers.

It was weeks before anyone could figure out why. Then, when some genius hit upon the reason, it became a studio joke. The visiting males' disfigurement. Feller Faces Browns Today; Hermans Win In Tourney

Indians Topple Chicago

Allen Receives Credit For Triumph; Tribe Holds Two-Game Lead.

CLEVELAND — (AP)—The Indians turned loose their pitching powerhouse — Bob Feller — in an effort to short circuit the St. Louis Browns' jinx today.

Recalling ruefully how St. Louis put the hex on this Tribe in their last two series, grizzled Oscar Vitt decided to use the young speedballer to check any possible threat at the outset instead of saving him for the week-end crowds.

On the basis of past performances, Feller was a good bet to outjinx the Browns. He has won all three starts against them.

St. Louis met this strategy by assigning Elden Auker to the mound. He has a record of three victories and one defeat against the Tribe.

While Feller's assignment today meant he wouldn't start against St. Louis in a crowd-drawing Saturday game or Sunday's double-header, he'll be available for relief work if needed.

He'll pitch "just as often as we need him," says Vitt, and that, he added, means he will start every four days and do his stint at relief if Harry Eisenstat and Joe Dobson should fail. Now leading the majors in victories, Feller sought his 21st today.

The Indians' chances of chasing the St. Louis nemesis were enhanced by improved hitting the past few days.

The Tribe collected 15 off Pitcher Thornton Lee as it set down the Chicago White Sox 5 to 4 yesterday, although it was unable to bunch these blows effectively.

Five of those hits were doubles, one of them off the bat of Lou Boudreau scoring Ray Weatherly with the winning run in the eighth inning.

The victory — credited to Johnny Allen who replaced starter Al Milnar in the seventh — was Cleveland's fourth straight and kept their two-game lead over second-place Detroit intact.

Milnar gave up eight hits, walked three and allowed all the Chicago runs, while Allen yielded two safe blows in the final frames.

Only 5,000 turned out for yesterday's game, but that was no sign of abatement in pennant fever.

The Indians are receiving ap-

Halt Ashland Team

Mansfield Softball Combine In Semi-Finals of District Meet.

HELD to one hit in six innings, the Sons of Herman softball combine broke loose in the seventh and eighth innings to register a thrilling 4 to 1 win over the Ashland Faultless Rubber team in a second round game in the district softball tournament at Elyria last night.

The triumph placed the Hermans in the semi-finals of the district meet. The team squares off against the Lorain Hart Jewellers at 8:30 p. m. today.

Manager Frank Beeber selected Jim Fullager to handle the mound duties as the Hermans attempt to annex their second straight district championship.

The Mansfield combine ran into trouble in Bowman, Ashland pitcher, in the early innings of last night's tussle.

Until two were out in the seventh, the only hit secured off the Ashland moundman was a single by Tommy Moxley.

But in the seventh, Jimmy Stout doubled and went to third on George Berry's towering fly to centerfield. He romped home on Frank Balbaugh's single a minute later. That lone tally enabled the Hermans to knot the score at 1-all and force the game into an extra inning.

In that frame the Hermans went to work and punched over three tallies and put the game in the ice box.

Harold Geiger, who replaced Freddie Carver on the hill in the seventh, received credit for the victory.

If the Hermans win tonight they face the winner of the Sandusky Knights of Columbus-Lorain American Legion game in the finals at 8:30 p. m. Sunday at Elyria.

Moxley and Al Sticker paced the Hermans at the plate with two singles apiece. Stout was the only Mansfield player to secure an extra base hit.

TORONTO — (AP)—The "golf wives" around the circuit have ten said that as soon as Sammy Snead got married and settled down, he'd probably start winning all the tournaments.

And, from the way Sammy started out with a four-under-par 67 in the Canadian open yesterday, it seems the golf wives had something there.

Sammy was married only last Monday and brought his honeymoon here to take in the open. He fired a 36-31-67 for a one-stroke lead over Stan Horne of Montreal, his closest rival. Three were tied at 69.

Pitchers Star as Tinkeys Edge Alta Lumber Combine

WITH each team collecting only four hits, and 31 batters going out via the strike-out route, the Tinkey Lumber company softball team nosed out the Alta Lumber 3 to 2 in a pitchers' battle staged yesterday in an independent league game at the Blue Goose field.

The Tavernettes beat the All States 7 to 6 in the other league game played yesterday.

Winnebrenner of the Tinkey team and McKinley of the Alta Lumber allowed only four hits apiece in the eight-inning game. Adding to their stellar performance, Winnebrenner struck out 16 of the Alta batters, and McKinley struck out 15 Tinkey players and walked two.

Both teams scored in the first inning, the Tinkeys pushing two runs across the plate and the Alta Lumber one. Neither team scored until the fifth, when Alta pushed over another run to tie the score at 2-2. The Tinkeys scored their final and winning run in the seventh inning.

Sandel led the hitting for the Tinkeys, getting two safeties, both triples, in three times at bat. Williams and Hoss also hit safes. Ed Hoss led the Alta batters with a home run. Pete Shadok and Flaherty collected doubles and Wertz a single.

Bob Arnold Gives Up Eight Hits in Marking Up His 14th Triumph.

With Arnold hurling an eight-hitter, the Braves dusted off the pace-making Pandas, 9 to 1, before a Ladies' night gathering of 400 under the arcs at the Fairground last night.

The Pandas, who are walking away with the league championship, didn't look like a championship team last night.

Mansfield allowed the Pandas to take a 1 to 0 lead in the early frames, but a six-run uprising in the fourth turned the tide and the Braves didn't have any more trouble.

Mansfield invaded Fostoria to tackle the last-place Red Burds tonight and returns to the Fair park to meet Fostoria at 8:30 p. m. Saturday.

Arnold was wild, but he bore down and handled the situation when the going got tough. He walked seven Pandas and struck out three.

Magato started on the hill for the Pandas, but Cisco took over the mound duties in the seventh. Mansfield scored its last three runs off Cisco.

After taking a 6 to 1 lead in the fourth, the Braves added a marker in the seventh and two more in the eighth.

Herb Wooden led the Tribe at the plate with a pair of doubles, while Hal Hundemer added two singles and Howard Beals cracked out a home run.

Reese Out for Season

Brooklyn Shortstop Breaks Bone in Heel; Dodgers Drop 4-2 Decision.

By BILL WHITE (Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE DODGERS are putting on some sort of celebration for old Freddie Fitzsimmons tonight, but no one feels like celebrating.

The Dodgers, a month ago, with Ducky Medwick in the outfield and Peeewe Reese at shortstop, felt they were a positive shoe-in for the pennant.

Now Medwick is hardly hitting the size of his collar, the Dodgers are in second place and Reese is en route to Louisville, victim of a broken bone in his left heel which probably will keep him out the rest of the season.

So with the loss of yesterday's game 4-2, to the Phils, and the loss of their star shortstop, who fractured his foot while sliding into second in the seventh inning, the horrible spectacle of third or even fourth place stares them in the face.

While the Dodgers were losing all their dreams, the league-leading Cincinnati Reds were simply losing a ball game, 1-0 to the Chicago Cubs.

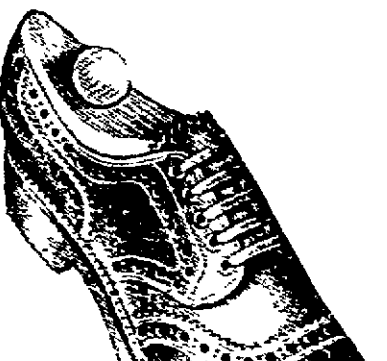

In the National league's only other offering, Lefty Joe Sullivan of the Boston Bees blanked the Giants for eight innings in a superb four hit relief job, while his mates were walloping three Giant pitchers for a 12-1 victory.

The Yankees made the third

Moore, Turner to Face Cubs In Twin Bill Today.

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—The league leading Cincinnati Reds, who have specialized in winning double headers this season, hoped a twin bill with Chicago would serve to bring them out of their slump today—before the second place Brooklyn Dodgers do something about it.

Whitey Moore and Milkman Jim Turner or Ace Hurler Bucky Walters were scheduled by the Reds to face action in an attempt to break the baseball whammy which has been on them for the past three weeks. Big Bill Lee and Vern Olsen, rookie pitchers, were called by Chicago.

The Cincinnati club fell yesterday under the spell of Hurler Claude Passeau who blanked them 1-0 for Chicago. The Rhinelanders remained five games in front. Passeau allowed only five hits, the same number permitted by Paul Derringer for the Reds, but the Cubs paired two of theirs in the fourth to score.

The tally was counted as Billy Herman connected for a single, went to second on a sacrifice, to third on an infield out and crossed the plate on Hank Leiber's single to center.

It was Derringer's third straight defeat.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—News: Reaction for Larry MacPhail's recent jaunt to Puerto Rico was to arrange for the Brooks to show out there next year. Veteran Red Sox stars commented on the latest Ted Williams episode. Consensus: Theodore is just a big spoiled boy. . . . Spencer Scott, the Hambletonian winner, was just about given up as a cripple during his two-year-old days.

Of course, there is the bare possibility that I am wrong, and I know that thousands of you will stand up and cry "perish the thought!" It is conceivable that the beaming Medwick took from Bob Bowman of the Cards shortly after he joined the Dodgers did him more damage than was at first realized, and that he may yet regain the form that for years made him the most feared hitter in the National League. No one hopes this more than I, but no one believes it less than I.

The American league leading Cleveland Indians pounded South-paw Thornton Lee for 15 hits, but couldn't bunch them and barely nosed out the White Sox 5-4. Buck Newsom had a field day in leading the Tigers to a 5-2 win over the Browns. He pitched six hit ball and doubled in the sixth to put his mates ahead. He fanned nine.

The last-place Athletics ganged up on Walter Masterson of the Senators in the eighth inning for four runs and a 6-5 decision in the second game of a doubleheader. Skinny Sidney Hudson scattered 14 hits to win the opener, 9-4.

The Dodgers had company along baseball's Walling Wall, for the Pittsburgh Pirates found themselves without the services of Al Lopez, their sparkplug catcher, who split his bare hand in a game at St. Louis Wednesday night. He'll be out about two weeks.

Angles for Anglers

By ROBERT OLDS

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Angles for anglers: tucked away in a corner of Shelby county in western Ohio there's a wild, stump-studded little lake that hasn't attracted as many fishermen as most of the lakes in the state.

That's probably the reason why a state conservation division survey shows that narrow, shallow Lake Loramie provides just about the best fishing that Ohio can offer this year.

On the same day, fish management agents made a simultaneous checkup of what anglers on the spot had caught in the state lakes they call it a "creek census"—and found that Loramie provided the heaviest catches.

The report turned in by fish management agent Clarence Clark showed that 169 anglers pulled in 710 fish at the 1500-acre lake which is an important headwater of the Miami river.

Out of a total of 214 fishermen, who fished an average of two hours and 20 minutes, only 45 went home with empty stringers, Clark reported.

About 25 per cent of the fish caught that day were bullheads. The totals were: 195 bullheads, 149 crappies, 130 channel catfish, 49 carp, 45 sunfish and 10 large mouth bass. Henry, Warner, of Dayton, had the largest catch—four bluegills, 10 crappies and 14 bullheads.

Although few bass were caught, the ancient winding lake which a century ago was an important feeder reservoir for Ohio's great canal system rates as one of the best large-mouth spots in the state. One nearby resident caught 200 bass last season.

As the survey indicated, Loramie provides excellent bluegill, bullhead and crappie angling and especially channel cat fishing. The day the census was made, Ray Grier, of Ft. Loramie, pulled out a 26-inch channel cat.

The fact that all fishermen were fishing with natural bait, mostly worms, is considered partly responsible for the small catch of bass. Anglers came from 11 counties on that day, 30 per cent of them from Dayton and only 14 per cent from Shelby county. About four per cent were Indiana fishermen.

In recent years land erosion has caused the washing of a great deal of silt into the lake and provides a problem which the conservation division may solve by digging a channel around the lake to carry off the mud-filled waters and dump them into the creek below the lake.

Around the 38-mile shoreline there are thick fringes of cattails, rushes, willows and water lilies which provide fine cover for the fish.

Large hunting and fishing exhibits are being constructed on the Ohio State fairgrounds for the fair, Aug. 24-30. The conservation division is repeating its fishing contest for youngsters in one of the lagoons on the grounds and casting instruction is to be offered. Last year, 3,155 boys and girls from 65 counties and four states tried their luck.

The other lagoon will be devoted to demonstrations showing the value of erosion control and the use of various conservation techniques.

Lindsey Replaces Hodge As Belleville Coach.

L. C. Lindsey of Granger, has been hired as football coach at Belleville high school, it was announced by school officials today. Lindsey, a graduate of Ashland college, was selected on the 1938 All-Ohio collegiate football team. He will replace Royd Hodge, who resigned early this year to take over the coaching duties at Westerville high school. Hodge was at Belleville five years and developed two outstanding grid machines. In the last two years his club was defeated once each season. Last year he saw his star back, Howard "Tick" Hamilton, win the state individual scoring championship.

BUCYRUS HIGH SCHOOL GRIDDERS TO PRACTICE

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus high school gridders will open their football season this year Sept. 13 when Tiffin Columbian comes to Lane street field, according to the schedule announced today.

The complete schedule is as follows: Sept. 20 at Fostoria; Sept. 27, Upper Sandusky here; Oct. 4, at Shelby; Oct. 11, open; Oct. 18, Harding High here; Oct. 25, at Galion; Nov. 1, Mt. Vernon here; Nov. 8, Ashland here and Nov. 15, Findlay here.

THEATERS

Returns to Screen.

Jon Hall, the newcomer who was a sensation in "The Hurricane" three years ago never made another picture after that until "South of Pago Pago." Producers said there never was a vehicle suited to the tall, dark and handsome American who was raised in Tahiti. Frances Farmer and Victor McLaglen are in the cast. The action takes place south of Pago Pago where the unprincipled McLaglen looks for black pearls. The film opens at the Ohio tomorrow.

The Greeks Had a Word.

Maybe the Greeks had a word for it too, but in America we call it "nut comedy." That's "The Boys From Syracuse," screwball comedy of ancient Greece, which brings together a cast that includes Joe Penner, Allan Jones, Rosemary Lane, Martha Raye and others. There's pulchritude, music and comedy in this film version of a stage success. It opens at the Madison Saturday.

Seen as Pony Rider.

Jack Randall is seen as a crack rider of the pony express in "Overland Mail," a Ritz attraction today and tomorrow. He aids the government in routing a gang of mail robbers and helps to quell an Indian war. "The Invisible Man Returns," with Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Nan Grey, Vincent Price and John Sutton, is the second feature.

New Episode.

In "The Courageous Dr. Christian," Jean Hersholt takes the popular character he has created through a new episode. He wages a battle to get the squatters moved into a better part of the town and wins only after an episode.

IT'S K-I-S-I-N-G

DAYTON —(UP)— Uncle Sam's army air corpsmen are K-I-S-I-N-G these days. No, that's not a misspelling of something extra-curricular. It's just an abbreviation adopted as purchase engineers seek to sheer through defense red tape. It means "Keep It Simple," and applies to reports as well as laboratory technique at Wright Field.

Kellogg's CORN FLAKES

An expression of appreciation to the American People

Thirty-four years ago I perfected a method for making toasted Corn Flakes from fine white corn grown in the United States. Little did I realize the tremendous expansion which lay ahead.

The American people liked my Corn Flakes. Sales grew from a few packages a day until now, after a third of a century, millions of packages are sold each day. Ideal working conditions, security and means of livelihood have been provided for our employees and their families. The American farmer likewise has been benefited by our purchases of grains and other products.

Today as I note with satisfaction the ever increasing sales of Kellogg's (the original) Corn Flakes and our other cereals, I wish to express my sincere appreciation to the American people for their confidence in the products which bear my name. I also wish to thank the grocery industry for their splendid cooperation.

Kellogg products will continue to be made according to the high standards which have won for them this acceptance.

WAR STYMIES STOCK MARKET, ISSUES SLIP

Motors, Steels Lack Support: Wall Street Waits Outcome of Great Air Battle.

By VICTOR EUBANK
(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market appeared stymied by the war today and leading issues slipped a shade in desultory dealings. Lacking much support were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Boeing, Glenn Martin, American Telephone, Westinghouse, Standard Oil of N. J., and International Paper preferred. Bonds and commodities were a trifle uneven.

Wall Street apparently was disposed to await the outcome of the great air battle of England.

An encouraging market indicator was seen in the survey of Dun & Bradstreet which placed the country's retail spending this week at 6 to 10 per cent above the corresponding 1939 period. The increase was said to be better than seasonal.

Blitzkrieg Attack Intensity Doubled

2,000 German Planes Raid Britain as Coastal Points Again Made Target Of Bombs; RAF Fighters Busy.

craft had been downed within an hour or so after the large-scale attack began.

Air raid alarms ranged inland as far as London, where a fighter squadron chased away a group of German bombers which appeared on the city's outskirts.

British fighter squadrons were operating out at sea in order to fall on the German attackers as they headed back to their French bases and attempt to shoot them down at a point where German ammunition and gasoline would be low.

One group of 30 Junkers dive bombers was attacked in this manner and it was confirmed that seven of them were downed.

In London observers felt certain that Adolf Hitler was hurling his famed Luftwaffe (German air force) into the combat with full vigor in an effort to knock the RAF out of the skies.

But confidence was strong here that the RAF would emerge unbroken despite losses suffered in the combat. Neutral experts were said to feel that Germany would be unable to win air superiority over the British Isles and that this would mean that the projected German invasion attempt would have to be dropped or at least postponed.

The sky exploded over the southeast coast when the huge German attack started. British high level and low level fighter patrols pounced on the German attackers and dog-fights broke out over an area of 100 square miles.

Preceding the mass attack other British fighter squadrons had chased German planes which flew over the outskirts of London's metropolitan area. It was the second successive day that German raiders had appeared around London's fringe and an air raid alarm was sounded.

Unofficial reports indicated between 10 and 20 German planes were shot down in early phases of the combat.

A final report by the air ministry on yesterday's fighting claimed that 169 German planes were shot down with the loss of 34 British planes. Seventeen pilots of the destroyed British planes were reported safe.

Thirty German dive-bombers made an attack inland from the south coast. It was reported seven of them were shot down.

Two German fighters were shot down on the southeast coast by British pursuit craft.

British Hurricanes were seen in rapid flight over the London area and were believed to be pursuing German raiders.

The return of the raiders ended a brief respite since last night when the Midlands industrial district was heavily bombed.

(In Berlin the high command said objectives bombed in the Midlands included airplane and motor factories at Birmingham, Britain's second largest city.)

Anti-aircraft guns and fighter planes drove last night's raiders away but not until they had dropped several bombs, one of which hit an annex to a sanatorium building, damaged a nurses' home, injured two nurses and endangered 330 patients.

But German bombers and fighter planes ranged over Scotland, England and Wales during the night after 16 continuous hours of day-light air battling in which the British claimed to have shot down nearly 150 of 1,000 raiders.

The Midlands district was heavily bombed during the night, but anti-aircraft batteries and fighter planes drove off the attackers and they had not returned this morning. Three hundred and thirty patients in a sanatorium narrowly escaped death or injury when a bomb struck an annex to the main building toward which they had been rushed. The nurses' home was badly damaged and two nurses were injured.

Britons were convinced that Adolf Hitler's blitzkrieg was at last under way. This was brought home when German bombers struck at the very heart of the British empire—dumping bombs on Croydon airdrome in the London suburb of Croydon—a bare eight miles from Piccadilly Circus.

Pre-dawn hit and run German raids on the Midlands and northeast England today were believed only a prelude to resumption of daylight attacks on a scale such as yesterday when Stuka dive bombers, their sirens screaming, blasted away at industrial areas, airfields and ports in an effort to cripple Britain's defense power before attempting a troop invasion.

Germany hurled 1,000 planes against England yesterday in mass raids along a 500-mile front from Plymouth to Tyne, bombing Royal Air Force airdromes, harbors and coastal shipping.

Experts agreed that the aerial blitzkrieg might last a month or more, so long as there is favorable weather, and that Germany was concentrating on an effort to destroy the Royal Air Force—particularly its striking power. The raids also were believed intended to balance German air losses in frequent raids on shipping and harbors along the British coast.

Military authorities also believed that Germany hoped to destroy known airfields to force Britain to disclose the locations of secret fighter airdromes and anti-aircraft batteries which have not yet gone into action.

The air ministry claimed an official "bag" of 144 German planes yesterday, nearly double the number blasted out of the plane-filled sky on any previous day of Adolf Hitler's week-old aerial assault on the British Isles. It brought to 440 the total of German planes shot down, since the intensified aerial war started last Sunday.

The air ministry said that official reports showed that only 27 British planes had been lost and that the pilot of eight of them had landed safely.

The ministry said the German assault was divided into nine main attacks ranging from early morning until late last night, while from then until dawn today German scouters and bombers whipped through British skies in search of new targets for today's attack.

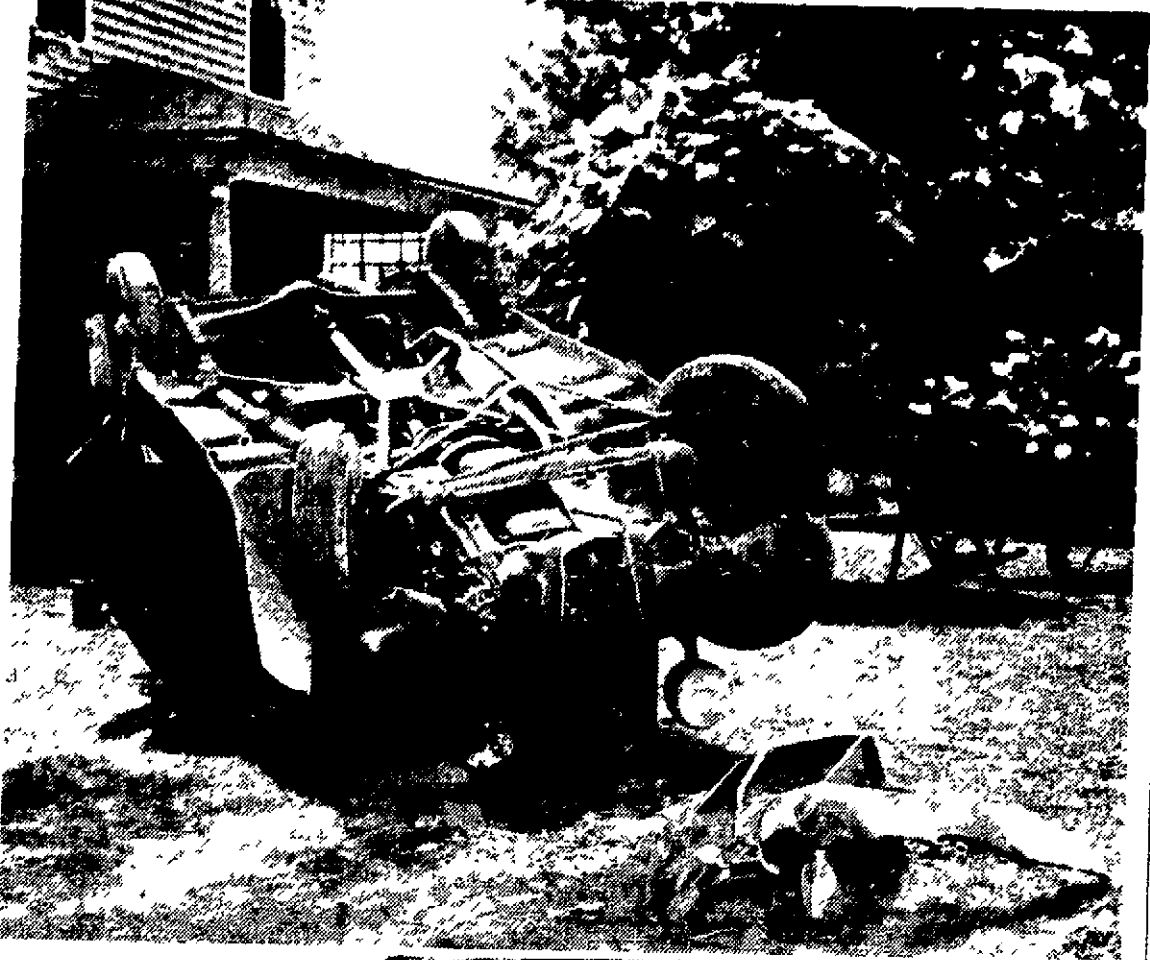

The attack on Croydon was the closest yet to London, although early in the war German planes had flown over the city without dropping bombs. Many homes in a street adjoining the airport were demolished and their occupants killed or injured. The air ministry did not announce the casualties. Many other homes along the street were damaged.

The bombers had come across the English channel from German occupied positions on the French or Belgian, and Dutch coasts in waves of 200 and 300.

Up until dusk they struck in all directions. The day's last mass raid was directed against south coast harbors and airports.

British long range bombers were over the continent during the night, bombing enemy objectives, but the air ministry did not disclose their destinations.

Where Boys Missed Death By Seconds

Hurdling a car by which it was being towed on U S 30N at the junction of route 314, this auto came to rest on its top on the lawn in front of the Irvin C. Elsas home as shown in the top photo. Three persons were injured in the freak accident but the two youths shown in the lower picture, Irvin Elsas, Jr., and his cousin Willis Sommer, escaped being crushed only by a few seconds. They are shown with their father they had been playing in the wagon which was crushed by the automobile and had left it just a few seconds before the accident.

HOUSE PASSES GUARD MEASURE

Senate Approval of Minor Changes Needed For Final Adoption.

moved through final legislation stages, the "destroyers-for-Britain" issue bobbed back into capital limelight and a flurry of reports that Great Britain had offered to lease the United States hemisphere naval bases in return for the badly-needed war craft.

Proponents of the transfer of over-age destroyers to Britain renewed their efforts, concentrating on attempts to show that the transaction could be accomplished legally, without the necessity of congressional approval.

The reported offer of bases in British possessions as the purchase price of destroyers was said to be under White House study. One source asserted that the attorney general had prepared an opinion, holding disposal of the destroyers legal if the chief of naval operations should certify that they were not needed for national defense.

House approval of the bill empowering the president to mobilize the national guard came yesterday after a turbulent session which saw a series of modifying amendments decisively rejected. The major restriction defeated was a proposal to limit service of mobilized men to the continental United States instead of permitting their use in the country's territories and possessions and in the western hemisphere.

With the senate in recess for the week-end final action was delayed.

Army officials said the men covered by the legislation were: 227,000 national guardsmen; 116,000 reserve officers; 38,000 enlisted reserves; 3,700 retired officers and 12,000 retired enlisted men.

Ohio congressmen voted as follows on the measure:

Democrats For: Claycock, Closser, Harter, Hunter, Kirwan, Polk, Republicans For: Bender, Brown, Elston, Hess, Jenkins, Lewis, McGee, Marshall, Routh, Zohn, Vorys.

Democrats Against: Secret, Sweney.

Republicans Against: Jones, Smith.

The senate yesterday continued its debate on the Burke-Wadsworth conscription bill. After the session Senator Burke (D-Neb.) said he was not willing to accept the amendment of Senator Maloney (D-Conn.) who proposes to defer the draft until January 1. Burke said the country could not afford even that delay.

Other defense development reports of the day included:

The army gave the Chrysler Corporation a contract to build a $20,000,000 "tank arsenal" at Detroit and placed an initial $33,500,000 order for 1,000 "medium" tanks of 25 tons or more.

War department recommendations were reported for the establishment of a $10-million dollar munitions saving plant near Racine, Wis.

BOYS 8 AND 10 ESCAPE DEATH

Called From Coaster Wagon Seconds Before Auto Crashes Into It.

sible shoulder fracture. All were treated in Mansfield General hospital.

Irvin C. Elsas father of the boys had called them to the house a short time before the accident. "Something seemed to tell me to get those children out of the front yard," he said. "Just a few minutes later this car came hurtling up into the yard, crushing a wagon that the boys had been playing with."

Mrs. Edwin D. Sommer mother of Willis Sommer, North Canton, O., who is visiting at the Elsas home, added: "Every afternoon this week we have been sitting out here in the yard. It was a miracle that we weren't in the path of the car when the accident happened."

Mrs. Elsas, who was badly shaken by the near tragedy, stated that it was the third car that had landed in the Elsas front yard in the past three years.

"We moved out to this place in the country to be where it is quiet and we are constantly afraid of accidents."

The accident occurred when Charles J. Castagna, 31, of Venice, Calif., who was towing another car owned by Mrs. Laura Gibson, struck a red flag on the road where the highway had been painted and lost control of his vehicle, going off the edge of the pavement.

The car which was being towed broke loose from the other car and catapulted through the air into the Elsas yard while the car driven by Castagna overturned on the highway. A highway patrolman who viewed the scene of the accident described the two cars as "practically junk."

Another car, owned by L. L. Koehender and parked along the side of the road, also figures in the accident. Castagna's car striking the front end of the Koehender car caused the Koehender car to be smashed.

James Castagna was taken to General Hospital by state employees who happened to be passing when the accident occurred. The other three were brought to Mansfield's ambulance.

TORPEDO HITS SWEDISH SHIP

Attacked By Submarines About 300 Miles From Glasgow.

NEW YORK—(INS)—A vessel believed to be the Swedish steamer Herdun was torpedoed by a submarine in the Atlantic about 300 miles west of Glasgow, according to a message received today by Mackay radio. The Herdun's position was given as lat 57 10 and longitude 16 37 N. Lloyd's register lists Herdun a vessel of 2325 tons built in Sweden in 1920 and registered at Stockholm.

small section of the British fighters attacked the balloon raiders and brought down at least one Messerschmidt after the Germans had accounted for a couple of balloons.

The bomber formations accompanying the Messerschmidts crossed the coastline and were on their way home across the channel when Hurricanes and Spitfires which had been circling high overhead swooped down.

For the next hour there came the rattle of machine-gun fire and the bark of the Messerschmidts' cannon as the rival planes battled over the channel as far as the French coast.

A TOWN IN SOUTHEASTERN ENGLAND—(AP)—A mighty armada of German planes is sky-racketing across the English coast today and military observers in the area estimated they were twice as numerous as in yesterday's 1,000-plane assault.

Some 400 planes over this English port alone in the vast armada and still they came.

The military observers based their calculations on unofficial reports that planes in equal numbers had roared across the coast at four or five other points.

The planes flying at 20,000 feet came in six distinct waves at roughly five-minute intervals.

One squadron singled out this port, downing two barrage balloons and spraying small demolition bombs along the cliff and machine-gunning the cliff itself.

GREECE NEARS MOBILIZATION OF ALL FORCES

marine and aviation. Shortly afterwards sailors on leave were recalled to duty and reports spread there would be general mobilization.

There was a growing feeling among semi-official circles that the mounting tension would become very serious within the next few days.

The tension was especially manifest among the armed forces who, it was felt, might exert its influence if the government became "over conservative" regarding the possibility of a conflict between Greece and Italy.

While the government policy still was strongly one of neutrality and maintenance of calm, the news of the Helle torpedoing could not be kept from the public. As a result there was public resentment against Italy. While there is considerable pro-German sentiment among the Greeks, there is considerable anti-Italian feeling, which, it was believed, might constitute a serious menace to the tenure of the present Metaxas government should it capitulate to any Italian demands.

Britain, Turkey To Aid Greece

LONDON—(INS)—Great Britain and Turkey will rush to the aid of Greece in the event of any Italian assault upon that country, according to press dispatches received in London today.

The Daily Express reported from Cairo that Britain is ready to honor her pledge to assist Greece against any Italian attempts to occupy Corfu or Crete or tamper with the Corinth canal or lines of communications to the Dardanelles.

Any such attempts, the report said, will be met by British naval and air force counter-attacks.

An Exchange Telegraph (British) dispatch from Istanbul said that Turkish Deputy Yachtin, writing in the newspaper Yenisa-bah, stated an Italian attack on Greece would result in Turkish intervention in the war on the side of Britain.

The diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Express said that, following the sinking of the Greek cruiser Helle by an unidentified submarine, all Greek naval men on leave were ordered to report immediately to their ships.

This account said motercyclists raced through Athens, warning all navy men in uniform to return to their vessels at once.

The Express added that while concentrations of Italian troops were reported on the Albanian-Greek frontier, the Turkish envoy in Athens was instructed to make every effort to mediate the Bulgarian-Greek territorial dispute.

Should Italy decide to "make a grab" in Greece, said the Express, Bulgaria is reported ready to move into the Mediterranean province which Greece took in 1919.

Furthermore, the same paper said it was reported that Bulgarian troops are concentrated on the Rumanian border, ready to march into South Dobruja, the area now

BRITISH BLAMED IN HELLE SINKING

ROME—(INS)—The Italian press today inferentially accused Britain of responsibility for sinking of the Greek cruiser Helle by an unidentified submarine.

"This incident, for which the British probably were responsible, was designed to aggravate Italo-Greek relations," the press said. "These relations, however, will not be affected."

Newspapers compared the incident to the sinking of the Canadian liner Athenia at the outbreak of the war. Germany has officially accused Prime Minister Winston Churchill of ordering the sinking by British warships.

A semi-official statement said: "We are authorized to declare in most absolute fashion that no Italian submarine was in the zone where the Helle was sunk."

OXYGEN NEEDED BY AVIATORS IN LONDON BATTLE

Fighting at High Altitude Is Carried on by Airmen in Arctic Clothes.

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
(INS Staff Correspondent)
LONDON—The battle for Britain took place today at heights so great that all participants in their thousands or more planes were forced to use oxygen constantly.

Since the Royal Air Force has punished the German raiders so heavily, they have chosen to fly too high to be seen and only the drone of their motors gives away their presence.

This afternoon, observers estimated that hundreds of Nazi planes had crossed the coast at an altitude of more than four miles. Despite this extreme altitude, British Spitfires and Hurricanes sought out and contacted the enemy.

Far up in the skies, clothed in Arctic costumes and masked with oxygen inhalers, fighting pilots of the German Luftwaffe and the R. A. F. battled like storied figures from one of H. G. Wells' romances of the future.

From the ground, their machine-guns could barely be heard like the feeble tapping of typewriters.

By mid-afternoon, it was estimated that between 25 and 30 German planes were down.

A grim accompaniment to this war of highly skilled technicians is the constant series of burials of fallen German airmen. Today nine were buried in a village cemetery with an R. A. F. chaplain conducting the service.

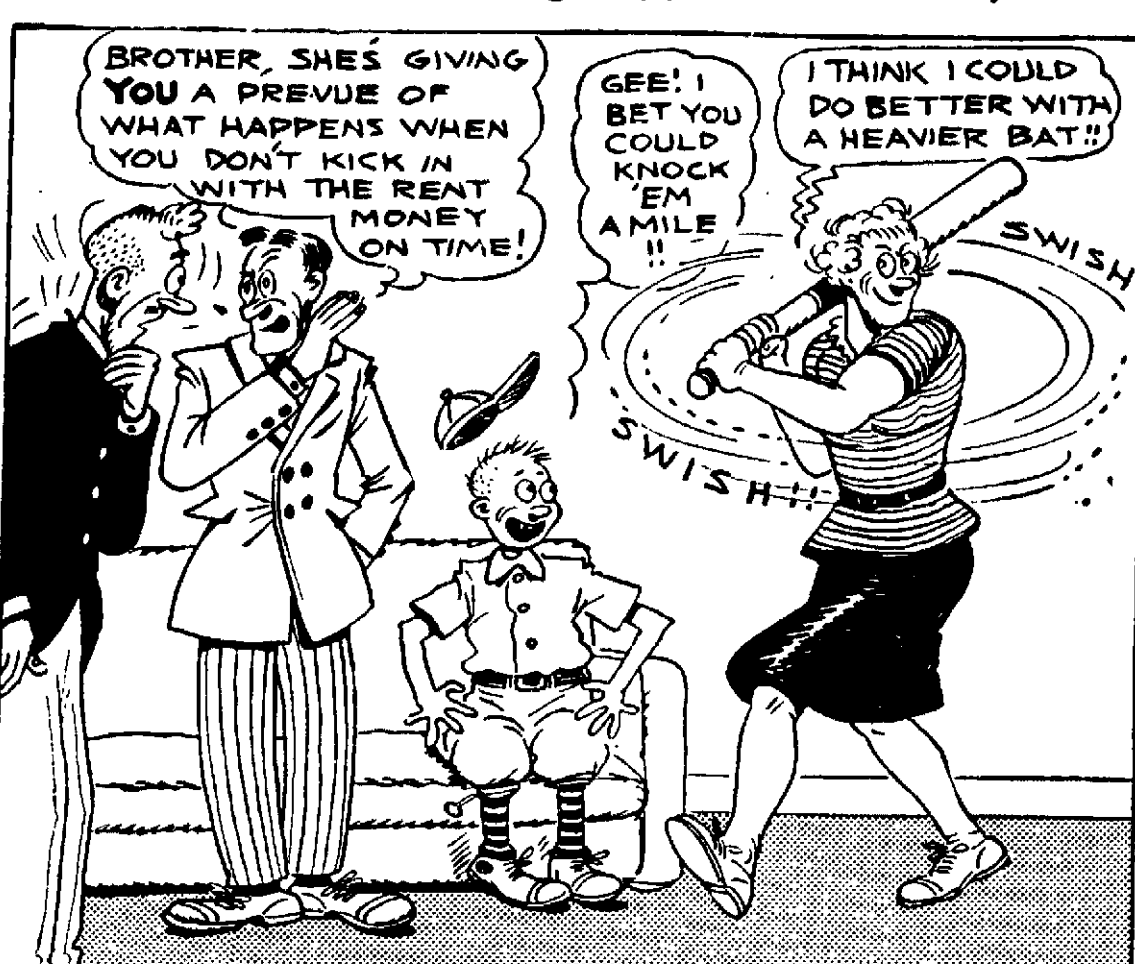

Checking the results of yesterday's phenomenal air battle which set an all-time world record for the number of planes destroyed in one day, experts remark that the significant point is that the Germans lost not merely their 169 planes but the entire crews.

Flying constantly over enemy territory, the Germans are inevitably captured if not killed, while the R. A. F. has the immense advantage of being able to save its pilots by parachuting.

During the last eight days, while the Germans have lost 468 crews, the R. A. F. lost 105 planes but saved 23 pilots, meaning 25 per cent. Pilots being so much more valuable than planes, the R. A. F. considers that this element plays an important role of helping toward steady diminution of Germany's numerical superiority in the air.

COAL PRICES TO INCREASE SOON

Dealers Don't Know How Much Yet Since Prices Are To Be Set at Mine.

Mansfielders may not be thinking much about their winter's coal supply yet, but fuel dealers warned today that the new government price schedule will go into effect Sept. 3 and coal will cost more after that.

Dealers were unable to predict today how much prices will go up, since the new schedule will determine only the price at the mine and retailers must set their prices later.

The price change, which will result from the Guffey act, is designed to stabilize prices at the mine and enable the producer to get more from slack and other cheaper grades of fuel that he has been selling at cost or at a loss.

One Mansfield dealer said the new price schedule will in time lead to bringing down the price of higher grade coal, but that trend will not be felt immediately, he added.

Dealers here expect to have schedules from Washington within a few days, giving them an idea about how much they will have to increase their prices to meet the higher production cost.

The officers said the men admitted stealing the wheat in Ashland county. They also admitted the theft of 23 bushels of wheat and 17 bushels of oats in Knox county.

One of the men gave a Mt. Vernon address. One said he lived in Butler and the other was from Fredericktown.

Richland county's recently established tuberculosis hospital was given an approving visit yesterday afternoon by an inspection party from Dr. W. J. Smith, chief of the tuberculosis division of the state department of health.

Dr. Smith visited the sanatorium yesterday, for the first time since its opening day. He ate luncheon at the institution and talked with most of the patients.

He told county commissioners that he considered the food as good as that served at any institution in the state and that general conditions were "satisfactory."

He said "considering the fact that your institution has been operating only a month, I think things are running exceptionally well. There are always problems that must be smoothed out in any new institution."

AMERICA SEEKS BRITISH NAVAL AND AIR BASES

F. D. R. Says Negotiations Not Connected With Sale of Old Destroyers.

as observers of hostilities there. The army observers are Maj. Gen. Delos Emmons, commander of the general headquarters air force, and Brig. Gen. George B. Strong, assistant chief of staff in charge of the war plans divisions.

The naval observers are Rear Admiral Robert L. Ghormley, assistant chief of naval operations, and his staff.

This was the first word that these high officers have been sent abroad.

Mr. Roosevelt insisted that the negotiations for acquisition of British naval bases have no relation to increasing discussion of proposals for this country to sell 50 or more destroyers to Britain. He said merely that the conversations are in progress on a quid pro quo basis and are proceeding.

Beyond that the president would not go. He refused firmly to discuss the possibility that British bases in this hemisphere might be acquired on a 99-year lease. He said that the statement he permitted reporters to quote represents all the news available on the subject at time.

Mr. Roosevelt cautioned reporters to make no assumptions and to adhere closely to the facts. But even prior to his press conference speculation had developed on the possibility that the United States might acquire naval and air stations in the Bahamas, Jamaica, Trinidad or other islands dominating water gateways to the Panama canal, the American lifeline.

Mr. Roosevelt described his announcements as falling into three major classifications without essential relationships between them:

1. The British conversations.
2. The Canadian conversations.
3. The presence of American observers in Great Britain to witness the German attack.

Mr. Roosevelt indicated clearly that he, personally, is supervising the British negotiations. As he first phrased his disclosure, he said that he was holding conversations with the British government for acquisition of the bases.

Then, restating it for direct quotation, he said the United States government is holding conversations.

But there seemed no doubt that the president personally was guiding the route of the negotiations which may produce a revolutionary new implementation of the principle of the Monroe Doctrine.

Mr. Roosevelt steadfastly refused to be drawn into discussion of proposals for sale of destroyers to Britain. His only direct reference to this proposal was his statement that sale of the destroyers is not involved in the current negotiations.

Likewise, Mr. Roosevelt declined to speculate on what opinion the justice department might give on his powers in relation to sale of destroyers. He did say, however, that Attorney General Robert H. Jackson has not yet rendered any opinion on the subject.

An opinion by Jackson, however, halted the proposed sale of 23 new mosquito torpedo boats to the British government. Those boats were new and were regarded by the U. S. navy as "experimental." The destroyers that Great Britain wants now are old. World war ships regarded by naval treaty standards as "over age." This fact might be the basis for legal differences.

One British source, unofficial but usually well-informed, indicated that Britain would welcome an arrangement by which the navy would use British bases in the Far East in exchange for the warships. These bases include the heavily fortified naval station at Singapore.

This source suggested that deals might be considered for the use of other bases, such as Kingston, Jamaica, which straddles one of the sea routes to the Panama Canal. It is an area where the navy would like to have increased facilities.

Another report asserted that Great Britain might consider trading island possessions in the western hemisphere for destroyers.

Chairman Key Pittman, (D, Nev.) of the senate foreign relations committee, had suggested the exchange of American destroyers for British battleships on the theory that the latter have proved of little use to Britain but would fit into the defense plans of the United States.

Official quarters denied that any transfer arrangement was being discussed. The White House, the state department and the British embassy all professed to have no knowledge of any negotiations.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., said, however, that the British purchasing mission told him two months ago that Britain needed destroyers. "The question is still alive," he said.

Sens. Josh Lee, (D, Okla.) and Sen. Claude Pepper, (D, Fla.) continued their efforts to obtain congressional approval of a destroyer transfer. Pepper has a resolution pending in the foreign relations committee which would permit the acquisition of any equipment by the British.

Commander Expresses Legion's Views

AFTER reading and listening to the widely divergent views on defense, conscription, neutrality, aid-to-England, appeasement of Hitler, and so on and on, it is something of a relief to turn to the consistently maintained attitude of the American Legion and to realize that this at least presents the views of men who know what war really is and whose sincere patriotism is unquestioned.

In a recent address Raymond J. Kelly, of Indianapolis, national Legion commander, said: "As a nation we desire to stay out of trouble, and pacifism today is merely a blanket invitation to trouble in this aggressively materialistic world in which we now find ourselves."

Urging America to arm itself sufficiently to protect its neutrality from encroachments and intimidation, Commander Kelly outlined the following 10-point program as aims of the Legion:

- 1—The Panama Canal and its approaches should be made impregnable.
- 2—The national guard and regular army be increased to 426,000 and 280,000 men, respectively, in conformity with authorized strength of the national defense act.
- 3—Congress adopt a program which would store supplies and equipment for an army and navy of 1,000,000 men for a period of one year.
- 4—Urged continued development and training of ROTC, CMCT, and modified program of voluntary military training in the CCC.
- 5—Construction of a navy second to none.
- 6—Privately owned shipyards be rehabilitated.
- 7—Establishment in the Pacific of additional navy bases.
- 8—Building up adequate naval and marine corps reserves.
- 9—Appropriation of sufficient funds to assure completion of the present program for military and naval aviation.
- 10—Recommendation that the U. S. Maritime Commission embark on a program of definite training of American merchant marine officers and men.

In association with national defense plans, it is the belief of the Legion that "under present conditions it is highly important that a status of industrial peace be reached in the United States."

On this subject Commander Kelly said: "Achievement of a lasting industrial peace in too many cases has been hindered—made almost impossible—by the efforts of Communist-inspired cliques to gain control of the labor movement in the United States."

Hatch Act Causes Worry

AS MIGHT have been expected, the Hatch Act is already incubating trouble for those practical politicians of the older school who resent having their style cramped by restrictions on campaign expenditures, methods of collecting funds, and such like.

The Democratic campaign handbook, for instance, which was such a prolific source of easy money four years ago, has been frowned on by Attorney General Jackson as a violation of the Hatch Act, and there is also indication of intention to closely scrutinize sources of Republican campaign funds.

It cannot be avoided that national political campaigns involve legitimate expenditures running into big figures but the total of $3,000,000 permitted to each party, with a limit of $5,000 from any one contributor, would seem to be sufficient to "educate" voters who are already assumed to be intelligent.

Panhandling Not Permitted Here

MANSFIELD has quite consistently maintained two policing policies that have served to minimize street nuisances along these particular lines.

One is a ban on street solicitation by prostitutes in the restricted red light district and the other is keeping panhandlers from operating in business sections of the city.

As in the case of the transient panhandler who was given a workhouse sentence in municipal court yesterday, there is an inclination among panhandlers to become abusive and impudent to citizens who refuse their whining appeals, and there is no apparent reason why their street begging should be tolerated. Practically all of these fellows are transients and their faces usually carry evidence of the cause of their plight.

Wisdom of a Woman Doctor

DR. CELIA O. CLEMANS, 70-year-old "country doctor" of Westlake, Ohio, has led an eventful pioneering life. As a practicing physician she made her rounds with horse and buggy before there were improved roads in rural districts. She raced the stock or filled in as veterinarian, as necessary. Inevitably she has had much hard work and many trying experiences and disappointments.

Despite all these, Dr. Clemans looks back on her career as interesting and to her liking. And she doesn't complain about the hardships of a country doctor forty-five years ago. On the contrary, she thinks "doctors now have to work hard to keep up with the advance of medicine." Specialization, easy transportation, office and hospital facilities have not made their work a snap.

It is refreshing to find people like Dr. Clemans who are able to keep their perspective so true and whose view of the present is not clouded by distorted memories of the hardships of their youth.

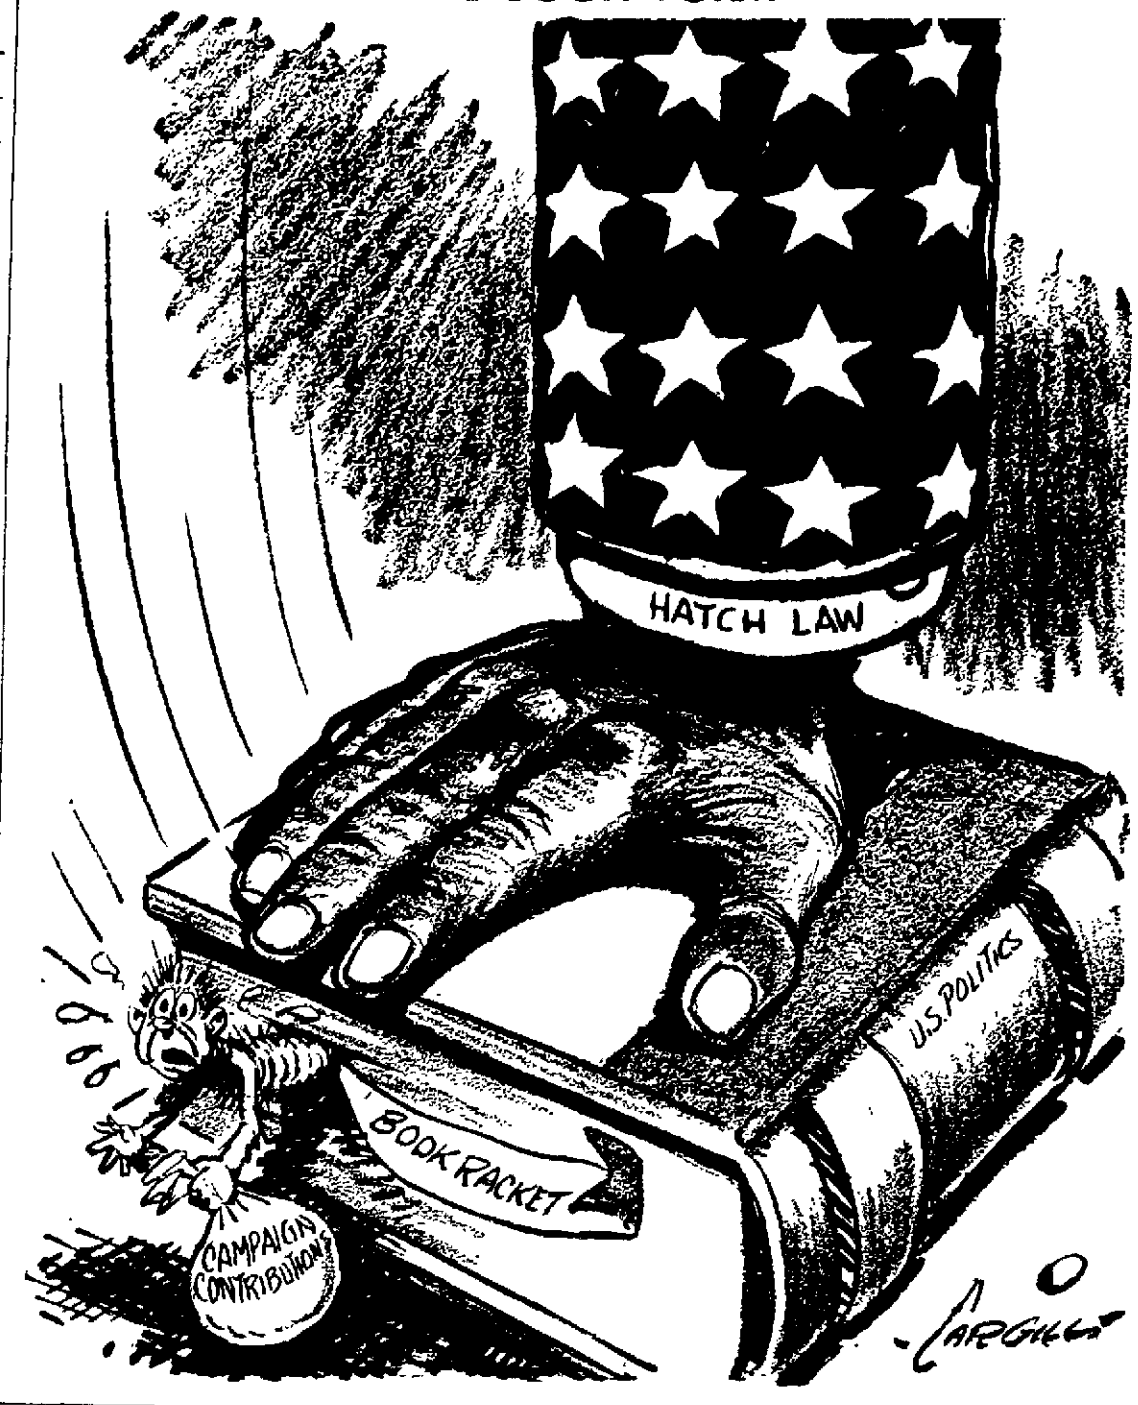

More Furniture Being Bought

THERE has been more furniture being bought by retailers lately than for several years. Rising prices are expected, and producers are unwilling at present to accept orders for shipments more than two months ahead of the present market.

That is not the only reason for the extra buying, however. Increased demand is already showing, with heartiest buying in low-priced merchandise.

The ground swell of unemployment is beginning to show and increased purchasing power, due to national defense, is expected to become manifest by late autumn.

Ductless Glands Shape Destiny.

—By DR. CLENDENING

THE ductless glands work constantly and upon their smooth and efficient operation depends much of our happiness, good appearance, disposition, spirits, and even personality. I am not one who believes that criminals and morons are that way because of defectiveness of their ductless glands and that they can be changed into something good and noble by a few shots in the arm. Nor do I think Napoleon was Napoleon on account of his pituitary gland—or Mussolini, or Hitler, or Stalin, either. Heredity and environment have most to do with crooks big and little.

But size and shape have a good deal to do with the way man or a woman fronts the world, and the glands have a good deal to do with size and shape.

There is a destiny shaper that lies up in the skull in the pituitary gland. It's a very small, little piece of flesh to have so much to do with so many things, not as big as the end of your little finger. But if it gets to be as big as the end of your thumb, there is the dickens to pay.

Makes Us Grow.

Growth, both vertically and horizontally, depends on the pituitary gland, and nobody can deny that has some effect on the personality. Six feet three looks at the world differently than four feet eight. And two hundred and fifty pounds finds things different every minute of the day and night from a hundred and five.

Overactivity of the pituitary gland causes gigantism and removal of the gland on the rat as experimental animals slows growth and development generally. Looking at them, one would not think he was looking at an animal some months, rather than some weeks, old.

If the contrary experiment is carried out of injecting pituitary extract into some of the newborn animals of a litter, they grow twice or three times as fast as their untreated litter mates.

But Don't Worry.

Undoubtedly the dumpy little fat children, so often seen, have a slowly functioning pituitary gland. Parents, however, should not try to rush things in these cases by resorting to pituitary gland injections. There are plenty of plump little girls and boys at around the age of 9 to 11. The parents sigh over these, but in the great majority of cases the pituitary begins to function suddenly at 12 or 13 years and the plumpness disappears so that at 16 or 17 they are as slender and graceful as a willow wand.

In many cases of overdevelopment of overactivity of the pituitary gland, producing gigantism or overgrowth of the arm and hand and feet, it is possible to reduce the growth by the use of extracts of the pituitary glands of the X-rayed rats. The use of these extracts is a master gland of the body.

SO YOU'RE SENSITIVE? Your feelings are easily hurt? And though, of course, you wouldn't admit it, you're a little proud of the fact, yes? Com'on—fess up—come clean. . . you are, aren't you? Am I possibly intimating that your own sensitiveness deserves a few Boos and Wallops?

I am. And if you can't take it, you'd better rush out right now and buy yourself a gumdrop. Otherwise it may do you heaps of good to sit right down and take a nice, long look at yourself. Game for it? Then let's go.

'Matter of fact, there has never been a human being—be he a scavenger, stevedore, screen star or scientist—who didn't think he was a suffering soul, lonely, maltreated and misunderstood! And he was right!

We're all sensitive. We're all hurt by the buffetings of existence, uppercuts—intentional or unintentional—of our fellow men. Life sets all our goats, sooner or later. And it's both stupid and enormously conceited to think

SETS HEARING ON DOMINION WORKERS' PLEA

NLRB Director Acts on Appeal of Tool Makers Requesting Separate Bargaining.

Regional Director Oscar S. Smith in Cleveland today ordered a National Labor Relations Board hearing Aug. 26 on a petition filed by the International Association of Machinists, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, for recognition of 18 tool makers employed by the Dominion Electrical Manufacturing company as a collective bargaining unit.

Disputes from Cleveland said the petition is contested by the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, a CIO affiliate, which acts as the bargaining agent for all of the plant's more than 350 employees in obtaining a contract which expires soon, Smith said.

The A. F. of L. union asks that the tool makers be recognized by the NLRB as a bargaining agent separate from other employees of the firm, which manufactures electrical appliances. Such recognition would enable the tool makers to negotiate their own contract with the firm.

Officials of both the CIO and A. F. of L. unions could not be reached today for a statement.

Company officials, however, said the firm's contract with the CIO union which includes the tool makers was renewed on July 1.

They said they had no interest in the jurisdictional controversy between the labor unions.

The hearing on the petition is scheduled to be heard by trial examiners at the courthouse a week from Monday.

Cleveland dispatches said that shortly after the Dominion officials had signed a contract with the URMWA, the IAM filed a similar petition with the labor board. The NLRB refused at that time to disturb the existing contract between the firm and the CIO.

The case was cited by A. F. of L. President William Green in testimony before the house committee investigating the NLRB as an example of the board's "bias in favor of the CIO."

Tax Assessment On Clipper Ship Becomes Problem

SAN FRANCISCO—GNS—How to tax a trans-Pacific Pan American clipper plane is the puzzle currently vexing San Francisco Assessor Russell Wolden.

After several explanatory plunges into the problem, Wolden has emerged with the pronouncement that he is settling exactly nowhere.

The situation arose because the trans-Pacific route's American base is now at Treasure Island, in San Francisco Bay, which is administered by the city.

It is the first time that San Francisco has been given the opportunity to tax an airplane, and the pioneering road is difficult.

For instance, complains Wolden, how much depreciation should be figured for each transoceanic trip of the fleet of four $300,000 clippers? What is their second-hand value, inasmuch as Pan American Airways is the only company in the field and there would be no market for second-hand ocean-going planes?

Who owns Pan America's hangars at Treasure Island, which were built with federal and state money and will revert to the city? Should only the planes in this country on March 4, the tax deadline, be taxed or all the ships on the Pacific route, some of which were in China and the Philippines at the time?

Pan American Airways also has its troubles. It must pay taxes at all of its ports of call.

TRESPASSERS ON RAIL LINE PROPERTY WARNED OF DANGERS

Persons trespassing on railroad right of ways were warned by H. F. Wentz, Newark, captain of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad that the practice not only was hazardous but was also prohibited by state law.

Pointing out that railroads are "constantly receiving requests" to eliminate any hazards that will endanger persons, Wentz said the trespassing habit was probable the worst to overcome.

He said that during the past few years amateur photographers, many of whom have made a hobby of photographing trains have caused the railroads more than little trouble and concern.

Capt. Wentz cited the case of a youth who only recently, presumably an amateur photographer, stood in the center of a main track in an attempt to photograph an oncoming passenger train and in order to prevent the youth being run down, it was necessary for the engineer to apply the emergency brake.

He said the photographer jumped in time to prevent being struck.

"Any one familiar with a camera knows that when looking through the view finder, the object to be photographed appears much farther away than it really is," he added.

"Probably the only reason that the young man attempting to photograph the train is alive is due to the alertness of the engineer who realized the danger."

Capt. Wentz asked Mansfielders and those living close to railroads to co-operate with the railroad by not using the right of way in preventing any fatal accidents in this vicinity.

COUNTY'S ROAD IMPROVEMENTS HIT 87 MILES

Program to Be Completed By Nov. 1 Cost $170,000, Says Richland Engineer.

When Richland county completes its road program for the year about Nov. 1, the county, with the help of the federal government and townships, will have constructed and resurfaced about 87 miles of roads, County Engineer Howard Sword said today.

The construction and repair program, one of the most ambitious in recent years, will cost more than $170,000. Cost to the county, however, will be approximately $65, 000 with WPA and the townships providing the rest.

Most expensive part of the program is a WPA-sponsored $100,000 resurfacing project which will include about 20 miles of major county roads. It will be completed soon.

In addition to the 20 miles constructed with WPA help, the county will build or repair 37 miles of road at its own expense and 30 miles with the help of the township, Sword said.

Only 20 per cent of the projects financed this summer by the county will be done under contract, the county and townships handling the rest of them with their own labor and materials.

"It was a much bigger program than we had planned originally, but we'll try to get the money to finance it somewhere," Sword said.

Earlier in the summer, the engineer said he expected the work to be limited almost entirely to repair jobs because the county lacked funds.

The 20 miles of roads which the

AUGUST AND JUNE SHARE BRIDAL FAVOR

Weddings Are Being Scheduled for Remaining Week-Ends of This Month; Both Formal and Informal Ceremonies Planned.

WITH brides this summer, August is vying for popularity with June, and a number of young Mansfield women have chosen the coming week-end for their weddings. St. Peter's Catholic church and parish house will be the places of three weddings tomorrow. Miss Helen Kuneman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Kuneman, 109 Wolfe avenue, and Ferdinand Loykovich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Loykovich, 336 Lexington avenue, are being married at the church at 9:30 o'clock in the morning.

Miss Marjorie Jean Logan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey J. Logan, 543 South Main street, will become the bride of John L. Lannan, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Lannan of Columbus, that same day in St. Peter's parsonage, while Miss Miriam Blum, daughter of Andrew J. Blum of Crestline, and Chester Bush have chosen to be married at 8 o'clock on the same morning in the church.

A Mansfield man, Stephen R. May, will take a Ft. Wayne, Ind. girl, Miss Virginia Derr, as his bride in the latter city Saturday at St. Jude's church. Lester Berger and his bride-elect also will be united in marriage on Saturday, the 30th wedding anniversary of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Berger. Miss Betty Heck will be Mr. Berger's bride in a ceremony at St. Matthew's Lutheran church, with Rev. C. F. Sheriff officiating.

On Sunday afternoon Miss Bette Anderson and Robert P. Rohrer will be wedded at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Anderson, on Davis road. The Central Methodist church will be the scene of another wedding that day, when Miss Evelyn Gongwer becomes the bride of Harold Wornor in an open church service.

The only nuptials scheduled for Saturday of the following week-end are those of Miss Anna Nannich and Paul Eitzwiler at St. Mark's Lutheran church. Then, on Sunday the 25th, Miss Virginia Rimmer and Jennings Heiser will exchange vows before the altar of the First Methodist church at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Two mid-week weddings will be solemnized on Aug. 29. At 4:30 o'clock that afternoon, Miss Sanchen Cutler and H. E. Shoemaker will be married by Rev. D. N. Roller at the First Presbyterian church, and Miss Lucyle Scott will be married to Ernest Yoakam.

Two more weddings will be solemnized on the last day of the month when Miss Mary Catherine Maxwell and Denzel D. Morgan are married at the First Congregational church, and Miss Gertrude Metzger exchanges vows with Ralph Butler.

Visitor Here

Miss Christine Evanoff, above, is visiting here from Ft. Wayne, Ind. She has been a guest at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Lazo Geroge, 268 Sheridan avenue, this week and plans to remain in town for several more days.

Five Guests Attend Happityme Club Meet

There were nine members and five guests in attendance at a meeting of the Happityme club yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Leona McGregor, near Lexington. The guests included, Mrs. Ruth Miller, Miss Mary Reynolds, Mrs. Carl Murphy, Mrs. Otis Wiles and Mrs. Orva Lubold. Contests were played during the afternoon, and score prizes awarded to Miss Reynolds and Mrs. Horace Cook. The hostess then served a luncheon. The next meeting, Sept. 19, will be held at the home of Mrs. Wallace Nussbaum, south of Ontario.

Another dinner meeting will be held on Sept. 19. The committee in charge of arrangements and the exact place will be announced at a later date.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Three Hostesses Fete Bride-Elect At Evening Affair

A crystal shower was an event of yesterday evening for Miss Virginia Rimmer at the home of Mrs. Robert Wingert, 730 West Fourth street. Mrs. Don Robinson and Mrs. Duane Darling were associated hostesses for this affair honoring the bride-elect of Jennings Heiser.

The 16 guests played bridge and Chinese checkers. Prizes in the bridge games were awarded to the honoree and Mrs. D. L. Rimmer, while Mrs. Fred Heiser won the checker prize. After the games, refreshments were served at a long table, decorated with pastel appointments.

Ringed alarm clocks signaled Miss Rimmer to the hiding places of the shower gifts during the evening, and later the hostesses presented her with a crystal gift. Miss Thelma Foltz of Crestline and Mrs. Charles Markley of Lexington were out-of-town guests in attendance. Miss Rimmer's associates at the J. C. Penney company are giving a picnic for her this evening.

Friends Honor Agnes Miller at Farewell Party

Miss Agnes Miner, who will leave Mansfield on Sept. 4 to enter the convent of the St. Francis order at Joliet, Ill., was honored with a farewell party last evening at her home, 147 West Fifth street. The honoree's mother, Mrs. H. W. Miner, her sister, Miss Jane Miner, and Miss Mary Pinka were the hostesses.

The 21 guests played games during the evening, and prizes were awarded to the Misses Dorothy Bishop and Angeline Spitalieri. Refreshments were served later, and Miss Miner received a shower of miscellaneous gifts in honor of the occasion.

Out-of-town guests at the party were the honoree's sisters, Sister Mary and Sister Sheila, and Sister Mary Alberta, all of Joliet. Next Thursday evening, Miss Thelma Snyder, who will also enter the convent on Sept. 4, will be entertained with a party at the home of Miss Loraine Baxter, 612 Coleman road.

Birthday Surprise For Dolores Berger

For the pleasure of Miss Dolores Berger on her 16th birthday was a surprise party given yesterday evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. William Huck, Jr., 51 Raleigh avenue.

Sixteen friends of the honoree attended the party and played games. Prizes were won by the Misses Ruth Huck and Betty Hahn. When a buffet luncheon was served, each of the guests received a miniature corsage. Miss Berger was presented with many gifts.

DISCUSS PLANS. Members of St. Agnes guild of the Grace Episcopal church had their first meeting of the new fall season last evening in the undercroft of the church. Plans for the coming year were discussed during the business session, which was followed by a social hour and buffet luncheon. The meeting of Sept. 12 also will be held in the church.

PICNIC AT LAKE. Sixty-two employees of the S. S. Kresge company attended a picnic at Long Lake Wednesday. Games, swimming and dancing followed the dinner.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

SEEMS as if the last two weeks in August is the most favored time of all for summer vacations—at least, judging from the number of Mansfielders who are going to be out of town for the next two weeks. . . . Jane Cunningham is leaving tonight for Philadelphia, Pa., where she will visit with a former resident of our town and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Don Davey. She was the former Kay Frank, you know.

Marianne

Loudonville on a small stream, joined the Ohio river and paddled on down to Marietta. . . . The course will take them some 150 miles, and they're camping out at night on the river banks.

Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Crouse are really on an extended vacation. They drove up to Mackinaw City, Mich., where they have a summer cottage this week, and they'll be staying for at least two—perhaps three months. . . . A northern vacation is also in the offing for Margaret McFadden, Thelma Hursh and Jeannette Remy. They're starting out tomorrow morning to tour through northern Wisconsin for the next two weeks—visiting in Milwaukee and Chicago, Ill., before returning home.

OF INTEREST to Mansfielders is the news from Toledo that Rev. and Mrs. Glenn F. Lewis are the parents of a baby daughter, born this week. Rev. Lewis and his family will move here early next month to live at 21 Bowman street, the rectory of the Grace Episcopal church—as Rev. Lewis will take over the pastorate of that church. The couple has named the baby Nancy Dunning.

Did you see Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hart while they were in town this week? She was the former Helen Smith of this city. . . . She and her husband have just returned to their home in Wal-tham, Mass., after visiting here with her father, Dr. W. A. Smith, and his family.

ANOTHER visitor in town earlier this week was Mrs. Edwin Sebring of Rochester, N. Y. She had been attending the national missionaries' conference in Delaware, and after the regular sessions were concluded, she came up here to see Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Risley before going back East.

VINCENT VAN TILBERG expects his vacation to be an interesting one. . . . He has gone to Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Minneapolis, Minn. . . . The latter city was his home before he came to Mansfield a number of years ago, and so he will visit a number of former fishing haunts in northern Minnesota and Wisconsin. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Wilson of Monterey Park, Cal., who have been visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity, left this morning to tour the western states before returning to their home. . . . Mrs. George Grau and her daughter, Betty, of Long Beach, Cal., and Mrs. B. L. Sites accompanied them. Mrs. Sites plans to remain there for some time, studying craniopathy under Dr. Nephi Cottom, who was a guest at the Sites home last summer.

AND IN CONCLUSION: A group of young Mansfielders recently came home from Bar Harbor on Lake Erie, where they vacationed with Lucille Chessnour at the cottage of her aunt, Mrs. William Barr. . . . The girls included Ruth McKee, Betty Smart, Katherine Schaller, Marjorie McClure, Doris Seisinger, Lois Wapner, Shirley Stiebler, Elsie Roehm and Naomi Linen-mayer. . . . Mrs. Barr and Mrs. Herman Schaller chaperoned the group. . . . Returning soon from their vacation will be Mr. and Mrs. Glenn E. Wright, their daughters, Marilyn and Karen Sue, their sons, Stewart and Robert, who have been visiting with relatives and friends at their former home in Omaha, Neb. . . . Mrs. Guy Shawk was at Lakeside, where she gave a talk on "The Charm of Old Buttons and Their History" at a meeting of the Federated Women's clubs.

OUTDOOR SUPPER.

Fourteen members of the Loyal Daughters class of the St. John's Evangelical church met for a picnic supper Thursday evening at South park. Two guests, Mrs. Minnie Arndt and Miss Ida Diehl of Tiffin, were present. The evening was spent socially following the supper. The next meeting will be held Sept. 12 with a steak fry at Middle park.

CHICKEN DINNER.

Friends of Mrs. Clyde Swank from the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company honored her with a chicken dinner at the home of Miss Lola Stahl, Hedges street, last evening. Pink and white appointments were used on the dinner table. Later the group presented the honoree, who is the former Miss Iona Gruneisen, with a shower of miscellaneous gifts.

CHANGE PLACE.

The meeting of the Busy Bee club tonight will be with Mrs. Charles Wingert on South Foster street, instead of at the home of Mrs. Chester Seisist as was formerly announced.

WIN PRIZES.

Mrs. Clark Pittman, Rowland avenue, was hostess to members of the Chrysanthemum club Thursday evening at her home. Eleven were present and played bridge. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Fay Fairman and Mrs. Edith Metcalfe. Later luncheon was served at small tables with garden flowers used as decorations. Mrs. A. G. Homer will entertain for the next meeting on Sept. 4 at the Staiger Tea room, Glessner avenue.

PLAY CARDS.

Six members of the Les Huit Femmes club motored to Roadside park, on Wooster road, Thursday evening for a picnic supper. Later cards were in play and a social time enjoyed. The next meeting will be held Sept. 5 at the home of Mrs. Richard Burgett, Arch street.

Bette Anderson Entertained at Kitchen Shower

Miss Betty Tharp entertained with a pre-nuptial party for Miss Bette Anderson yesterday evening at the Westbrook Country club. Bridge was the diversion at three tables, with high score prizes going to Mrs. T. E. Smith, Miss Emily Cox and Miss Doris Good-enough.

Luncheon then was served at a long table, centered with a miniature bridal party, flanked on either end by good luck horseshoe arrangements of summer flowers. Pink and blue in pastel shades predominated in all of these appointments. Miss Anderson was presented with a shower of kitchen gifts from the guests, and she received an electrical gift from the hostess.

Miss Anderson, who will become the bride of Robert P. Rohrer Sunday afternoon, is being honored with a spinster dinner party tonight by Mrs. Donald E. Frampton and Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Frampton will be one of the bride-elect's attendants at the wedding.

Reveal Nuptials During Church Class Meeting

Announcement was received today of the marriage of Miss Mildred Desterhaff to Ervin Winbigler, who exchanged vows in Greenwich on Aug. 3, at the United Methodist association, with Rev. W. H. Bryenton, officiating. Members of the Gleaners class of Grace Gospel church learned of the wedding, when they met at the Desterhaff home on Fifth avenue for a weiner roast Wednesday evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Desterhaff, and she was graduated from Madison high school. Mr. Winbigler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Winbigler, 406 Fourth avenue, and both he and his bride are employed at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. They will reside near Greenwich.

The class members also honored Mrs. John McFarland with a linen shower at this outdoor meeting. She is the former Miss Mary Stiff of this city and now has gone to Long Beach, Cal. to join her husband.

Present Gifts To Mrs. Chester Beer

Mrs. Harold Bensinger and Mrs. Louis Houston entertained with a kitchen shower for Mrs. Chester Beer last evening at the Bensinger home on Hammond avenue. The honoree was formerly Miss Dolly Colbert.

Card games were played by the 16 guests during the evening, with prizes going to Mrs. John Hergett, Miss Annabelle Strong and Mrs. Albert Beer. Garden flowers decorated the small tables, when luncheon was served.

SERVE REFRESHMENTS.

Miss Roberta Phipps was a guest present Thursday evening when members of the Floral Hedge club were entertained at the home of Mrs. Orville Earick, Hedges street. Bunco was in play at three tables and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Christ Herrick, Mrs. J. M. Simpson and Mrs. William Monteith. Later refreshments were served by the hostess at small tables which were decorated with summer bouquets. On Sept. 19, Mrs. Marion Fleming, Granite street, will entertain the group.

WOMEN ORGANIZE SOCIETY AT CHURCH

Mrs. C. A. Crawford Elected President of Christian Service Group at First Methodist; Committees Appointed.

THE CHARTER MEETING of the new women's division of the First Methodist church was held yesterday in the church, following a covered-dish dinner at 12:30 o'clock. This organization will be known as the Women's Society of Christian Service.

Preceding the election of officers, Rev. E. G. Corwin, pastor of the church, was in charge. The ritual and organizational problems were discussed, and 95 new members participated in the enrollment ceremonies. Mrs. Elsie Ireland presided at the organ when hymns were sung at this time.

The slate of officers then presented by the chairman of the nominating committee, Mrs. V. D. Coe, was accepted by the group. Mrs. C. A. Crawford has been named president, to be assisted by Mrs. S. S. Little as vice president. Mrs. C. T. Howe will serve as corresponding secretary of the new society, and Mrs. Eugene Linham, recording secretary. Miss Ethlyn Auten is the treasurer.

When Mrs. Crawford took charge of the session, she appointed Mrs. W. L. Seemuth as chairman of the membership committee, to be assisted by Mrs. Paul Early and Mrs. Lona Palmer. The new president also stated that Mrs. Little shall be the alternate delegate to the conference meeting at Delaware in September.

Mrs. Crawford and her committee were in charge of the noon dinner, and the session was concluded with a prayer and the singing of prayer hymns. On Sept. 5 the various units of the society will elect officers during a meeting at the church.

By DR. GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

As I observe parents in relation to their tots at bathing beaches and summer picnics, I am encouraged with the many samples of sympathetic, understanding parenthood I observe. I am very sure that the number of such good instances I have been able to observe has been increasing over a period of years. Of course, one does still have to see some terrible treatment of young children in public places. Nevertheless, the better sort of parenthood in this respect is prevailing, I do believe.

Needless Bussing.

It's a delight to see parents and older children patiently helping the tot to get used to the water without fear, even training the little tyke to float and swim. Toddlers at the beach and open picnic places usually have ample space areas in which to move about and play without annoying others or injuring property. Checking on the few necessary items for safety and regard for the rights of others, the parents of a little child can let him alone most of the time. Whereas some parents must be bossing the little child all the time, most are able to keep their bossing at the beach and park to a minimum.

On the Loose.

Concerning the runaway from five to twelve, I am not so optimistic. It is disheartening to see so many of this age in public recreation places who have little or no regard for the authority of their parents. These children often become a nuisance to others, especially at picnics, defiantly facing dangers and defacing property despite the warnings and commands of their parents. Often these youngsters will venture into deep water or beyond known safe bounds right before the helpless mother's eyes, as she calls in vain. And if a tragedy occurs!

Some city children visiting in rural places, not having learned adequate obedience, will venture into dangerous swimming holes, lured on by the more experienced natives.

Sometimes two or three of these runabouts, seeking adventure, will experiment with improvised rafts and scows; all too often meeting with accident. Parents should guard their children against such foolish risks. In order to do so, these parents will have cultivated basic obedience in the child in his earlier years to the end that he will accept NO as final and will continue to have a wholesome respect for authority. While some children who are best trained in obedience will meet with serious or fatal accidents, fewer will than those who have not learned to obey.

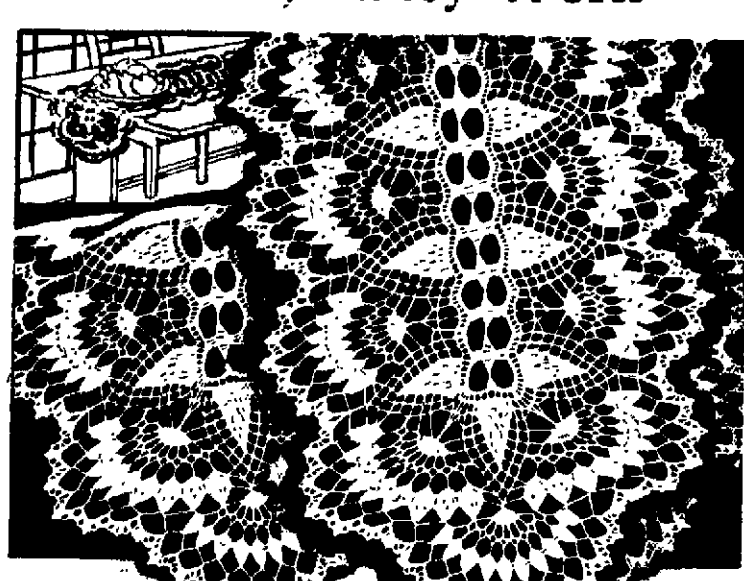

Terrible Toll.

Many children crippled for a lifetime or killed in accidental deaths would have the privilege of living on to old age with sound whole bodies if they had in their earlier years been disciplined in the ABC's of obedience.

But we must not be too hard on their parents. Have they not been told by alleged experts for years and years that they should never lay the hand on the child to restrain him, else they would warp his personality? No matter about losing his life, warping his body, character or future citizenship. Anyway, no one has proved that adequate restraint will warp personality. Rather,

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

But it was with reluctant steps indeed, that I went toward my room where Nurse Whitlock was taking care of Edith Fairfax.

Two or three times when I have voiced some excuse partially false about a person to camouflage something else about them, I have seen my first excuse come true unexpectedly. My common sense tells me that all of the occasions were the merest of coincidence, but I felt my hands go damp at the possibility that the worry about Edith's state of mind which I had voiced to my mother-in-law might come true.

I stood before my door for a long second or two before I could make up my mind to knock. And when I did lift my hand, the resultant tap was so faint that I wondered if Miss Whitlock would hear it. Yet I dared not rap louder, for fear Edith, who I knew was having so much trouble sleeping, might have just dropped into slumber and be awakened by my summons.

Door Opens.

But the door opened almost instantly, and Miss Whitlock slipped out through it and closed it after her.

"Do you dare leave her alone?" I murmured.

Miss Whitlock looked at me oddly.

"Then you know," she said. I gasped with the sensation of having cold water thrown into my face.

"Know what?" I countered. "Really, I know nothing. I just surmised that she was more ill than we had thought."

Very Ill.

"She is all of that, and then some," Miss Whitlock said. "I have been wanting to talk to you about her as you know. And when you told me awhile ago that you could see me this afternoon, I took the liberty of giving her an extra strong sedative. She needs sleep more than she needs anything else, and there is nothing the matter with her heart, so she had the dose in some coffee, and never knew what she was getting. If she had known, she never would have taken it. She seems to have a horror of going to sleep—perhaps because she has a greater horror of waking up again."

There was something significant in her tone, but I was afraid to follow the lead she had given me, and after a little hesitant pause she went on.

"But she's dead to the world now. I made sure of that, and she'll stay that way for an hour at least. I wouldn't dare to leave her if she weren't sound asleep with no danger of her waking to find herself alone."

A Mystery.

"It is very lucky she is so sound asleep," I said, "for there is something I must talk over with you immediately, something for which we must plan. Then, when we have settled that, we shall have plenty of time before she wakes for the discussion about her which you wish with me."

"Very well," she said, and walked with me to the window seat in the hall, where for the last time, as I hoped, I recited my father's wishes for guarding the women of the household. Miss Whitlock listened attentively, nodding acquiescence occasionally.

"If you can manage to have the room in readiness for me to put her into bed after the transfer, I shall be glad," she said gravely, and then I mustered up courage to put the question which I knew must be asked.

"Just what is it you fear about Edith?" I asked.

Miss Whitlock looked at me steadily for an instant.

"That she will kill herself at the first opportunity if she is not watched," she said.

Questions Friendship For Chums

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm a girl of 20 and in love with a boy of 23. He has told me he loves me, but I doubt it, as he comes to see me only once every two weeks and then we usually go out somewhere. He says if he visits often, he will want to come to see me every night.

He chums with two other boys and once said he thought no girl is worth breaking up a friendship such as theirs, which has gone on for years.

I thought, next time he comes to see me, that I would tell him we'd better not see each other any more. Do you think I should do this or wait and see how things turn out?

B. T.

If you tell this young man not to come again, isn't it likely that after you've had the gratification of indulging your "mad," that you may regret it? Besides aren't you giving your hand away and showing that you care a good deal for him. Also, when a young man says if he calls every night, he's proving that his excuse about the boy chums is just a case of defense mechanism.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Although we've been going together for over a year, I've never confessed my love. Now my firm is sending me away on business and I'll be away for almost two years. When I told her about it the other day, she looked disappointed but said, "It seems that our friendship will soon be over, and now that you've decided to go away, perhaps I'd better not see you any more."

Does that sound as if she cares for me a little?

JERRY.

It shows very plainly that she cares a good deal, I should say. When she told you not to come because you were going away, I think she meant the separation would be too hard to bear.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl of 16, and have completed my high school education. I've met a boy I like very much and we've gone riding a couple of times.

When this boy isn't with his gang he's one of the nicest boys one wants to meet, but when he chums around with any of the boys, he doesn't have a good reputation. Therefore, when a girl goes out with him, people talk about her. My best girl's father won't allow her to go with me if I'm seen with this boy.

I would like your opinion about this. Should I go with this boy or not? Do you think I should let the talk about him bother me?

B. E.

No matter how decent this boy may be when he's with you or other nice girls, if he pals about with a rough gang, he's bound to be judged by the company he keeps. And if he gets into scrapes, as frequently happens with such boys, it may go hard with this one.

It's too bad this young man can't enroll in a good club. Can't some older person persuade this boy to give up his gang?

TRY TO MAKE CERTAIN

When you know, beyond all reasonable doubt, that there is a game in the hand, your job is to make sure it gets bid, if you can. The sort of bid which seems 99 per cent certain to be kept open is not the thing to use if you can find one which is 100 per cent positive of producing a game.

That is the bidding which developed at one table of a duplicate game—rather sound and conservative in a timid sort of way, but not so good in another. South's bid of only 2-No Trumps on his second turn was a highly hazardous procedure. Indeed, at one other table, where that same bid was made, North dropped it, feeling that he had an utterly irreducible minimum for his single raise. And his face red after South took ten tricks, failing to get a game.

All of the spade players made an unbid small slam, losing no trick except to the diamond A, since East's three face cards were all under the hammer of South's tenace positions.

Really South's correct second bid, after North gives his spades a raise, is not 2-No Trumps, but 3-No Trumps. By doing that South would make sure of a game bid in one declaration or the other, putting the choice up to North. If the latter held an exactly even distribution, with three cards in each suit except spades, his correct action would be a pass of the No Trump game call, but with the kind he actually had, he should carry it to 4-Spades.

Tomorrow's Problem.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Town Hall's wherever Fred Allen is. On the air, or off, or on a movie set as he is now.

It's been three years since Allen rambled through a movie. Last was "Sally, Irene and Mary." Before that it was "Thanks a Million." This time it is "Love Thy Neighbor," in which he carries on that pleasant if phoney feud with rival comic Jack Benny. That that's been going on for three years, ever since the night a young fiddler appeared on Allen's program and played "The Bee." Allen remarked that the lad played it better than Benny. The rest was natural. Another natural was teaming Benny and Allen in a movie.

Maybe Fred Allen worked like everything to get that way, but he has all the marks of a born wit. Some of the boys who thrive on alleged humor on the air get it second-hand from the studios of screenwriters. Maybe Allen, too, in part, but the test comes in casual remarks, when the paid scribes are in the cubbyholes, thinking up new angles to old ones, and the funny man is on his own.

That happens any time Allen comes up to say hello, after a scene, to visitors. It happened the other day when Allen, clad in silk blue-striped pajamas, and Miss Martin came over to pass the time of day. Miss Martin was rigged out in a pink and fuzzy hand-knitted woolen robe (over her white tailored slacks) for the bedroom scene they'd been doing. It was a very funny scene, ending mainly Allen's insomnia which was tied in with thoughts of that guy Benny. Feud stuff, but you'll see all that in the movie.

Miss Martin said she thought she'd get back to New York for a quick visit, come January. Allen, movie.

BRIEFS

The Adario M. E. church school will have their picnic Saturday at North Lake park at Mansfield.

Several from here are attending camp Sychar at Mt. Vernon this week.

I believe, proper restraint is necessary to prevent such warping. My magazine reprint, "Do you spank your child?" may be had without cost by writing me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which they may have excellent opportunity for putting into execution those long simmering ideas threatening to "set the world on fire." New plans and fresh ways of doing things should be successfully developed, with the prospect of large business interests being easily shown, whereas employers or superiors might demand revisions. Close at home there will be sympathy and support in further novel themes, especially should they manifest as a desire for society fiction, romantic drama, or prosaic scientific research. It is an excellent period for giving expression to creative urges.

A child born on this day may be extremely versatile and variable, with decided bends toward creative art, literature or drama. However, this urge may not prove lucrative or happy unless released from some inherent natural tendencies by strict proper direction and restraints.

Mark Sandrich called them back to the scene. Well, maybe it isn't so funny in print. It has to have the dry Allen countenance, the unconcerned Allen delivery. I guess you'll have to get that from the quick visit, come January. Allen, movie.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Aug. 17.

The customary holiday spirit might as well be indulged this day, since what business there is need only be of a routine nature and not particularly prolific or advantageous at that. There are signs of social, romantic and intellectual activity far more lucrative, enjoyable and worthwhile. It would be a propitious time for trying your hand at writing love, drama or romantic adventurous stories. The urge is backed by novel ideas and plots.

CLUB PRESENTS 2 VOLUMES TO LIBRARY HERE

Gives Selections Each Month;
New Book Tells of U. S.
Navy's History.

Two new fiction volumes presented to the library by a Mansfield club, and a history of the United States navy and its policy are among the new books at the Public Library this week.

A PASSION FOR PRIVACY by Louis Paul is a gay comedy of marriage and publicity. As the hero is the son of a very wealthy family, and his bride, in addition to being the cook's daughter, is a night club entertainer, the tabloids provide them with a painful amount of notoriety.

The Timely Topics Club is presenting to the library the books chosen monthly by the Catholic Book of the Month Club. The selections for June and July go into circulation this week.

SO FALLS THE ELM TREE by John Louis Bonn, the June selection, is based on the life of Mother Ann Valencia, foundress of St. Francis Hospital in Hartford, Connecticut. With humor and pathos, it shows this vital and understanding woman as she overcomes obstacles and completes her task of building a great modern hospital.

NO OTHER MAN by Alfred Noyes, is the July selection. It tells of the destruction, in "total war," of all mankind but two people, a young Englishman and an American girl, who remain to find their way to a life of peace and happiness, and to build a new world.

Other fiction: EMBER LANE by Kaye-Smith, CRADLED IN MURDER by Fleming, LONE STAR TERROR by Cole, STARK MURDER by Thayer.

A NAVY SECOND TO NONE by George T. Davis traces the history of U. S. naval policy from 1883, when the first ships of the modern navy were authorized, to the present moves for national defense. Mr. Davis presents the views of both those who have favored a big navy and those who have opposed it. Though based on research, the book is written in to interest the layman.

DEMOCRACY'S CHALLENGE TO EDUCATION, edited by Beula Andison, is a symposium on the fundamental problems of modern education in a democracy.

SANDWICH GLASS by Ruth Webb Lee tells the story of Deming Jarvis, founder of the Sandwich Glass Company, and traces the history of the company to its final closing in 1907. Most of the book deals with description of the wares of the concern, and is illustrated with two hundred full page photographs.

FOLDBOAT HOLIDAYS, edited by J. Kussner, describes a new type of boating. Foldboats tell of their experiences with this sport on many lakes and rivers of the United States.

OTHER NON-FICTION: BOOKS AND YOU by Maughan, THE BIBLE OF THE WORLD, ECONOMICS FOR THE MILLIONS by Fairchild, GOOD HEALTH AND BAD MEDICINE by Aaron, INDUSTRIAL ORGANIZATION AND MANAGEMENT by Davis, TECHNIQUE OF PICTORIAL PHOTOGRAPHY by Anderson, STATE OF MUSIC by Thompson, DIRECTIONS IN MODERN POETRY by Drew and Sweeney, OUR SOUTHWEST by Ferguson, THE MARCH OF THE BARBARIANS by Lamb.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

A new picture book about an unusual dog is being added to the children's collection. The display will also include a longer story for dog-lovers. This book shows a great understanding of a dog's nature and tells an interesting story of her adventures.

THE DOG, CANTBARK, by Margorie Fisher. Cantbark didn't learn to bark because he belonged to four musicians who would always promise and wouldn't allow him to make any noise. In a new home they found him he was very unhappy until he did bark one day in a time of great danger. The colorful illustrations help to tell the story.

LASSIE COME HOME by Eric Knight—Lassie was a pure bred collie owned by a poor man. When he became desperate for money he could get for his dog he finally consented to sell her to the Duke. But Lassie would not stay. She came home time after time. Most of the story is concerned with her long trip from Scotland to southern England and how it was planned that she might return with a new master.

CHAPTER XIX

"I'm glad you came, Clara," Marilyn said quietly. "And now, if the gentlemen will excuse us—"

"No you don't," Clara raised her voice raucously. "None of your tricks, Miss Lynn. You introduce me to your boy-friends. They look all right."

Lynn thought, "If only they'd go and leave me with Clara, I might get her into the elevator without a scene. But no. Bruce Gordon was watching Clara with narrowed eyes. The darkish flecks in them had turned to flecks of flame.

"My sister, Miss Clara Marsh," Marilyn said steadily. "Clara, may I present Mr. James Martin and Mr. Bruce Gordon?" She indicated each as she named him.

"You don't say," Clara laughed. "The names mean nothing to me, but if you told the boys that I'm the ver' poplar Queen of Beauty, 1939, they might get excited and ask us out for a bite and a bottle. I could go for a bite and a bottle, couldn't you, Handsome?" This was addressed to Bruce Gordon.

"Oh, no," hurriedly from Marilyn, "we couldn't possibly. Mr. Martin and Mr. Gordon were just leaving when you—"

"When I barged in. That was then, Miss Prim. Maybe now they've changed their minds. It's practically the middle of the evening. I got a yen for food'n drink, an' I kind of go for Handsome here. What you say, Handsome?"

Bruce Gordon read the plea in Marilyn's eyes. "Sorry," he said with cold courtesy. "We have an appointment. We'll have to hurry along. Jim. Good night Miss Marsh. He bowed ever so slightly to Clara. "Good night," he took Marilyn's hand, held it close for a moment. "I'll see you tomorrow."

Marilyn was conscious of the disapproving eyes of hotel attaches as she asked for her key, shepherded Clara into an elevator and finally found the sanctuary of her room. Perhaps she'd be asked to leave the hotel tomorrow.

Clara's behavior would certainly justify the management in such an attitude. "Hey, Lynn," Clara was seated uncertainly on the side of the bed. "This is a bunk. Hardly wide enough for one. How we both going to get our beauty sleep in such a con-trap—oh, skip it."

"It's not so bad once you're in it," Marilyn tried appeasement. "Take your things off. I'll hang them up. You may have the bed. I'll curl up in the chair by the window."

"Being noble again, huh?" Clara's grin was a taunt. "You sure get a kick out of that noble stuff. I will take the bed, Lord knows I need it, but not until I've had food and drink."

"I'll order sandwiches brought to our room."

"Sandwiches!" Clara scoffed at the thought. "Where I go we eat lobster Ther-Ther-mitty-jig, and we wash it down with bubbles."

"Where we are," Marilyn said, lifting the service receiver, "we eat sandwiches and wash them down with warm milk."

"Milk!" Clara cried. "I hate that stuff. It upsets my stomach!" Marilyn ordered sandwiches and a pot of steaming hot coffee.

Clara, munching the last crumb of sandwich and, dropping a third lump of sugar into her coffee, suddenly looked up and said, slyly:

"How did you ditch Al, and where did you find the good-looking stranger?"

Marilyn said, "They were strangers. I didn't find them. They found me. They helped me, when Al was hurt, in the Blue Parrot. They helped me get away quietly."

"Maybe there was two but only one of 'em could take it away from Bob Taylor. The tall blond one with the eyes that burn you up. So the two of 'em played Boy Scout for you when that fresh Al hit?"

"Maybe you're not as dumb as I thought you were, Sis. Picking up Handsome was a pretty smart trick. Are you going to see him again? Did he try to date you?"

"I can't very well help seeing him, sooner or later," Marilyn mused. "He happens to be my employer. He's an executive of Clarco."

The moment she spoke, Marilyn realized she had made a mistake. Her simple statement of fact all but bounced Clara out of bed. "You mean Handsome's in the office with you," she demanded, "in the very same office—"

"No," confessed, in a vain effort to undo the damage. "He has his own office. I'm in the general office. He's one of the firm owners—of course he has his own suite—"

Clara's high-pitched laughter was hysterical, frightening. "Look who's got her claws on the boss!" she cried, bending over and beating the coverlet of the bed with her fists in a parody of unholy glee. "Strangers, huh? You been in town a couple of days and you're sittin' pretty! A couple of days and Miss Prune and Prisms is the boss's girl friend! Wait till Millville hears the news. That'll 'I'll ask him."

In the chair by the window Marilyn fought for sleep. A few hours and it would be 9 o'clock. She must face another day in competition with brains that were fresh and clean, bodies that were rested.

Marilyn had hoped that before she left for the office in the morning Clara would be sufficiently out of the fog to feel some contrition. In such a mood, Marilyn might persuade her to give up the idea of posing in the Blue Parrot, a spot Marilyn felt certain had been purchased for her by Herman Hess.

If only Clara would consent to return to Millville! If only she would share an inexpensive room with Marilyn until she could find work on her own, a job not subsidized by a gross profligate man.

The hope was drowned in Clara's clamor, when Marilyn tried to rouse her, that her head was splitting, that she must have "a pitcher of ice and bromide quick," that she was going to stay in her for a week, that Herman Hess was a "yellow dog," that she wished people would clear out and let her sleep. Then she pulled the covers over her head and refused to listen further.

Down in the lobby, Marilyn rang Bruce Gordon's apartment. The clipped voice of a man servant answered. The young gentleman who had been injured was doing nicely. The doctor had been in very early. Mr. Gordon had gone out immediately afterward for a gallop in the park. He had left word when Miss Marsh called she was to be informed the young gentleman was doing nicely. The doctor found no concussion, but in view of the shock suffered, thought the young gentleman should remain quiet for another day, possibly two, that he should not be moved or receive visitors.

Marilyn thought, "No matter how muddled our lives are, we can always find reason for thanksgiving."

The mechanical precision of the office, the quiet undertow of its activity was manna to her troubled heart, her chafed nerves, her careening thoughts. Determinedly she forced herself into the swing of work, felt herself carried along by the pressure of it.

Several times during the morning Marilyn felt the sharp eyes of Miss Edna Cook, head of the department, boring in on her from the observation desk at the end of the room. She must look ghastly under the office lights. At noon she'd freshen up her make-up, bear down on the lipstick a bit, and add a touch of color to her cheeks. By 12 o'clock she had written three pieces of copy she thought especially good and sent it on its routine.

She gulped tomato juice and nibbled a cracker at a drugstore lunch counter. Then she walked swiftly, trying to whip life into her numbed body. She phoned her room at the hotel. No answer. Clara was probably asleep or in a pet and would not answer. She was careful about her make-up. Too much would be more telltale than none at all. When she returned to the office at the close of the lunch hour the three pieces of copy that had been ground out so laboriously were on the desk. It
